

Chanting Doves Force Vietnam Debate Delay

Humphrey on Victory Doorstep

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Democratic Party opened an historic battle early today on whether to repudiate President Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam War but then adjourned after hand-clapping doves chanted "Let's go home!"

Finally, when it became clear the delegates shared the fight, Chicago Mayor Richard

Daley was recognized for an adjournment motion which was shouted through.

tions behind the vice-president's triumphant banner.

Humphrey also appeared headed for a victory in a Democratic national convention showdown over a Vietnam platform plank tailored generally to President Johnson's war policies, despite vigorous opposition from the party's dovish wing. Debate in this plank went on far into the morning.

The rapid-fire developments, coming on the eve of the presidential balloting, caused consternation among supporters of Humphrey's

chief rivals, Sens. Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern. They began huddling frantically in search of an alternative candidate who might stop the hard-driving vice-president. (See below.)

The Knight newspapers, in a copyrighted interview with McCarthy, quoted him as saying "I think so" when asked if Humphrey had the nomination "wrapped up."

"I think it was probably wrapped up more than 24 hours ago," McCarthy said in the interview. The senator placed his strength at about 700 votes and said "I don't even think Teddy could get enough votes to win."

But no sooner was the story out than Richard N. Goodwin, a top McCarthy aide, called the press together to deny

Draft Talk Louder

Divided Dissidents Seek Kennedy Glue

From UPI, AP, Reuters

CHICAGO — Eugene McCarthy, George McGovern and California's powerful Jesse Unruh were reported Tuesday night to have discussed a possible presidential draft of Edward Kennedy with the Massachusetts senator's brother-in-law.

An aide to Unruh, who asked that he not be identified, told UPI that the California assembly speaker, who is chairman of the largely uncommitted 174-vote California delegation, wanted Democratic anti-Vietnam critics to unite behind a Kennedy candidacy.

"We think the votes here last night showed that the McCarthy and McGovern forces must unite in order to win this party's presidential nomination," the Unruh lieutenant said.

The report of the meeting between the two dove candidates for the presidential nomination came amid hectic maneuvering at the convention.

Time Requested

Convention officials said California had asked for time to offer a name in nomination for president Wednesday night. Mrs. Dorothy Bush, secretary to the national committee, said the request did not bear the name of who was to be entered into the race.

Informed sources within the California delegation said the letter seeking time Wednesday night was submitted to leave open the possibility that Kennedy's name might be submitted.

"The letter was sent up basically as a pro forma thing," said Unruh's news secretary, Richard Klein. "It was not done with any specific candidate in mind but to protect our interests."

Support Likely

A source told UPI that McCarthy conceded to Kennedy's brother-in-law, Stephen Smith, that he was all but certain of defeat, but still planned to have his name placed in nomination.

McCarthy was reported to have said, however, that he still hoped that Hubert Humphrey could be stopped from a first ballot victory and if Kennedy allowed his name to be entered, he might support the youngest of the four Kennedy brothers.

A top aide to McCarthy said Tuesday night the Minnesota senator met during the afternoon with Stephen Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law only to discuss the Democratic platform plank on Vietnam.

Unity Move

In Hyannis Port, Mass., a spokesman for Kennedy said Tuesday night that he would have "no comment" on a news report that Smith met McCarthy Tuesday to line up support for a presidential bid by Kennedy.

Despite the 36-year-old Massachusetts senator's plea Monday that his name not be put in nomination, Representative Robert Tieren of the Rhode Island delegation said he intended to place Kennedy's name in nomination.

Pilots Ratify Contract To End Strike Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada pilots have ratified a labor agreement and will not strike against the airline, it was announced Tuesday.

Cleve Kidd, executive vice-president of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association, announced that a "substantial majority" of Air Canada's pilots had voted to accept an agreement worked out last week. The proposed agreement averted a threatened walkout by the airline's 1,122 pilots. If it had not been ratified in the secret ballot vote completed Tuesday, a strike would have started at 2 a.m. today.

The 27-month contract provides for a 10-per-cent increase immediately and a further seven per cent after 15 months. The pilots had originally asked for a 21-per-cent over-all increase.

Air Canada expressed pleasure at news of the ratification and said normal service will continue.

A spokesman said the total contract package will cost the airline $6,700,000 over the 27 months. Air Canada's present pilot payroll is about $15,000,000 a year.

From AP-Reuters

PRAGUE—His voice heavy with emotion, First Secretary Alexander Dubcek of the Czechoslovak Communist party appealed to the nation Tuesday night for support as their leaders try to rule in the presence of thousands of Soviet occupation troops.

But first indications were that the support was not forthcoming.

Demonstrators ripped down pictures of Dubcek and President Ludvik Svoboda, and marched through downtown Prague shouting: "We do not want to live on our knees." Soviet armored cars drove into the side streets when they sighted the marchers.

Dubcek said the compromise agreement he and other Czechoslovak leaders negotiated in Moscow calls for gradual withdrawal of the troops from cities and towns to special areas if Czechoslovak authorities are able to maintain order.

He also disclosed that some measures swept out in the liberalization program begun by Czechoslovak reform leaders last January will be re-introduced. They include press censorship, beginning today.

It was Dubcek's first speech to the public since the invasion a week ago. President Ludvik Svoboda followed with an address pledging the government and party will continue the liberalization program.

But many Czechoslovaks expressed disappointment or bitterness when they learned that the occupation troops will not leave immediately.

"We have been sold out," some cried, while others wept openly as news of the agreement spread.

Immediately following Svoboda's speech, several free Czechoslovak radio stations broadcast protests demanding that the Soviet-Czechoslovak agreement be rejected because it was reached under pressure and threats.

The clandestine stations emphasized that the agreement would be valid only after ratification by the parliament, Czechoslovak party central committee, party congress and the Slovak party congress now meeting in Bratislava.

As the angry Prague marchers thronged the entrance to the parliament building, a deputy told them from a first-floor window: "Parliament will not endorse any agreement that is against our freedom to speak and to write, or against our sovereignty."

There was a great roar of approval when he added: "Parliament does not agree with the Moscow communiqué."

"We will do our best to make this republic democratic, sovereign and free."

National Assembly leader Josef Smrkovsky, weeping as he reported the agreement to stunned deputies, said: "It was a necessary compromise."

The deputies broke into cries of "Tell the truth" and "Long live Czechoslovakia."

Reuters news agency reported observers here believe that, should the agreement be ratified, Dubcek would have no effective independent powers to humanize and liberalize the Communist system in Czechoslovakia.

Part of the agreement calls for the stationing of Soviet troops along the border with West Germany for an undisclosed period.

A communiqué issued here and in Moscow, at the conclusion of the talks there between

MUNICH, West Germany (Reuters) — Soviet troops took up positions at several points along the 235-mile Czechoslovak border with West Germany Tuesday for the first time since the end of the Second World War.

"It looks as if the Russians are taking over now," a Bavarian border police chief, Gustav Haering said here.

Earlier, Czechoslovak officials in Prague said Czechoslovakia had to agree to Soviet troops being stationed along the border as part of the agreement reached in Moscow.

Border traffic across the three Bavarian-Czechoslovak checkpoints had come almost to a standstill. (See also Page 3)

Water Exports

Canada Can Tap 'Billions'

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP) — Dr. Arleigh Laycock of the University of Alberta's geography department said Tuesday that if 10 per cent of Canada's surplus water was exported to the United States, it would mean $8,000,000,000 a year to Canada.

The $8,000,000,000 received from surplus water would be 10 times the average wheat sales in Canada in the last decade, he said. "The prospects are exciting."

Laycock said that by the year 2000, Canada will still be using only 2 per cent of its water supply, and export sales might well be warranted for the surplus. But many studies are needed and there is insufficient information on which to base them at present, he said.

Nixon Leading Poll Against Three Foes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Richard Nixon led Democrats Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, Eugene McCarthy and President Johnson by identical six-point margins in a Louis Harris U.S. election survey conducted last Saturday.

The survey copyrighted by The Washington Post published Tuesday, represented a sharp upturn of more than 10 points in Nixon's standing with voters since the Republican convention and the invasion of Czechoslovakia, Harris said. It also showed a loss of edge for McCarthy in relation to Humphrey, he said.

There have been no recent gains for third-party candidate George Wallace of Alabama, he said, but there has been a firming up of voter cleavages over the racial issue.

The survey showed as of Aug. 24:

In a Nixon-Humphrey-Wallace race: Nixon 40 per cent, Humphrey 34 per cent, Wallace 17 per cent and not sure, 9 per cent.

In a Nixon-McCarthy-Wallace race—Nixon 41 per cent, McCarthy 35 per cent, Wallace 16 per cent and not sure 8 per cent.

In a Nixon-Johnson-Wallace race—Nixon 42 per cent, Johnson 36 per cent, Wallace 16 per cent and not sure 6 per cent.

In a July 26-29 survey, Humphrey led Nixon 41 per cent to 36, and McCarthy led Nixon 43 per cent to 35. The Nixon-Johnson question was not asked at that time.

Barrage Resumes on Saigon

Cong Rockets Kill Civilians

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners slammed rockets into this city Tuesday night for the second time in a week after a two-month lull. The rockets hit a stretch of new homes, killing three civilians and wounding six others.

SAIGON (AP) — Stung by heavy combat losses in their latest ground offensive, North Vietnamese-Viet Cong forces appeared Tuesday to be shifting to less costly rocket and mortar attacks against southern outposts.

The southern allied command reported barrages against camps and towns from the demilitarized zone in the North to the Mekong Delta in the South Tuesday.

Heaviest hit in Tuesday's shelling was Fire Base Rawlins, an American artillery post along a jungled infiltration corridor 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

Gunners poured in about 200 rounds of rocket and mortar fire and followed it with a weak infantry assault that was repulsed.

Besides the 200-shell barrage at Fire Base Rawlins, an outpost of the 25th Infantry Division, gunners raked four other posts along the infiltration route northwest of the city.

Along the demilitarized zone, North Vietnamese gunners pounded away for the second straight day with the heaviest shell fire in several weeks. U.S. marine bases at Dong Ha, Cuu Viet and below Con Thine caught nearly 250 rounds, many of them from 130-millimetre guns firing from North Vietnam.

Shellings also were reported at a dozen South Vietnamese camps in the Mekong Delta and in the Duc Lap area north of Saigon.

U.S. B-52 bombers, continuing their daily campaign against buildup areas, flew 10 missions late Monday and Tuesday against targets from the delta to the demilitarized zone.

In Saigon, the national police reported Viet Cong terrorists killed 120 South Vietnamese civilians last week, nearly twice the previous week's 62 deaths.

Meddling Not Wanted
Viet Delegation Told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. delegation in Paris Tuesday was instructed to tell North Vietnam to stop meddling in internal American affairs and "get down to the serious business of making peace in Southeast Asia."

The state department shed no light on the source of the instructions, but President Johnson is known to have been irked by recent statements made by the Hanoi delegation in Paris concerning the Democratic platform and recent remarks by the chief executive himself.

State department spokesman Robert McCloskey issued the following statement: "Ambassador (W. Averell) Harriman is being instructed to tell the Hanoi delegation to stop misbehaving and trying to interfere in internal American affairs and get down to the business of making peace in Southeast Asia."

McCloskey conceded that it was unusual for the state department to make public such instruction in advance. Harriman was scheduled to meet with the North Vietnamese delegation for another bargaining session Wednesday.

At a recent news conference in Paris, chief North Vietnamese negotiator Nguyen Thanh Le, referring to the Democratic platform committee hearings, said: "Numerous union leaders, numerous intellectuals, numerous industrialists, numerous generals and officers demanded that the United States put an end to its war of aggression in Vietnam, cease unconditionally the bombing of North Vietnam, recognize the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam, and discuss with it the repatriation of American troops."

Le also accused President Johnson of using "lies" and "sophistries" on Aug. 19 when the president rejected entirely stopping the bombing of North Vietnam until Hanoi indicates it would "join us in de-escalating the war."

McCloskey said the purpose of the instructions to Harriman was to "persuade them in the interests of both sides to get on with the negotiations rather than engage in insults and irrelevant comments."

Quit-Korea Debate
Wanted at UN

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — The Soviet Union and 11 other countries have asked the General Assembly to debate a request for the withdrawal of all foreign forces from South Korea, it was announced Tuesday.

Czechoslovakia was among the nations which signed the letter requesting the issue be placed on the assembly agenda. It was dated Aug. 23, three days after the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The letter charged American military forces in South Korea are increasing their "provocative actions" against North Korea.

Troops under the UN flag, almost entirely American, have been stationed in Korea since 1950.

A call for the withdrawal of troops has been debated at the assembly for many years but always has been rejected.

Sponsors of the new request are Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Byelorussia, Cambodia, Cuba, Hungary, Mongolia, Poland, Ukraine, Russia, Syria and Romania.

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Czechoslovakia formally requested the United Nations Security Council Tuesday night to end its debate on the Soviet invasion and remove the item from its agenda.

But informed sources pointed out that since the item was placed on the agenda by a council vote of 13 to 2, it was unlikely that the body would agree to remove it.

The sources said the Czechoslovak mission appeared to be following the Soviet-Czech communiqué issued in Moscow Tuesday which stated that the Prague government already asked for the removal of the item.

FIVE SESSIONS

Russia has maintained that the five sessions the council has devoted to the crisis were illegal.

Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek and Acting Ambassador Jan Muzik both addressed the council and demanded the withdrawal of the occupying forces.

Hajek, who flew to New York Friday, prepared to return to Prague. He told reporters that since the government is again taking up its work, it would be appropriate for him to return as soon as possible.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will not press its move to have a UN representative go to Prague to intervene on behalf of Czechoslovak leaders, the external affairs department said Tuesday, because the immediate objective of the Canadian resolution seems to have been achieved.

A spokesman said the resolution will remain on the Security Council agenda. This would permit Canada to revive the issue in the event of any new threat to the Czechoslovak leaders.

H-Bomb Fallout Negligible

PARIS (Reuters) — The French hydrogen bomb tested Saturday had an explosive power of two megatons or 2,000,000 tons of TNT, Science Minister Robert Galley said Tuesday. He said fallout was negligible.

The bomb was detonated from a balloon 600 yards above the ground.

Galley said an aircraft landed him on Fangataufa Atoll, site of the test about 750 miles south of Tahiti, 3 1/4 hours after the blast.

Armed Forces Minister Pierre Messmer, who addressed a press conference here with Galley, said if the government grants the necessary finance French forces will be equipped with hydrogen weapons within a few years.

Galley said the device was about the size of a sedan car and efforts of French scientists now will be devoted to "militarization and miniaturization" of the weapon.

"We can congratulate ourselves on the fact that with this successful experiment our country has become the equal of the great powers. . . ."

Asked how long it would take to develop a warhead and a missile capable of delivering a thermo-nuclear charge, Messmer said "10 years would be a very pessimistic estimate."

Roots Go Deep

ONE OF THE MOST astute and well-informed of the contemporary observers of the European scene, Mr. Neal Ascherson, has this to say of the Russian-led invasion of Czechoslovakia:

"The notion of a democratic form of communism is not just the bright idea of some liberals. It is the inexorable consequence of the growth of Marxist societies and economies. The Soviet Union is defying history itself.

"Tree after tree can be hacked down, but everywhere the large, green roots of this change are heaving under the paving-stones and cracking them asunder. One day, unless the Soviet leaders understand their world in time, they will burst up through the floor of the Soviet Union itself."

The London Observer's commentator is supported in this view by an impressive representation from diplomatic, political, educationist and intellectual quarters, including Communist party leaders inside and outside the eastern bloc.

The Soviet Union has made it abundantly clear that it does not trust its allies, and now its allies have ample evidence they cannot trust the Kremlin or one another.

It is part of the agreement forced upon President Ludvik Svoboda's government that Soviet troops will be stationed on the Czechoslovakian frontier with West Germany. The pretext is that certain "militaristic" forces want to "encroach on the inviolability of the existing borders of Europe." Thus the Soviet Union seeks to expose a scapegoat, and a legitimate excuse for a continued occupation, neither desired nor required by Czechoslovakia.

The transparency of the Russian motive is as obvious in Prague as in Bonn. It is an attempt to seal a border which was slowly becoming less of a hindrance to economic and cultural exchange than the Soviet could comfortably tolerate. It was an area in which some discerned first steps towards a meaningful East-West detente.

It is clear now that in the eyes of the Soviet leaders this is not Czechoslovakia's frontier at all. It is Russia's. And the Russians do not trust the Czechoslovakians to defend it.

According to despatches from Prague and Moscow, the "occupation" will be gradually reduced, as the situation "normalizes." There may be a question of interpretation here. But it will be the Kremlin which makes the decision.

To the Soviet-Czechoslovakian agreement, the hard-line allies, East Germany, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary, have given what Moscow calls "appropriate" approval. In other words they said "yes" to it. What else could they say? From the beginning Russia has manipulated these pawns. But for their compliance Czechoslovakians will scarcely be able to resist deep and lasting feelings of resentment.

For the masters at the Kremlin that resentment will be deeper still.

As Mr. Ascherson says, "The Soviet Union is losing a world."

Testing Congestion

THE MOTOR VEHICLES Branch has taken steps to alleviate the rush on the car-testing station on McKenzie Avenue which at its peak resulted in waits of up to five hours for some motorists ordered to present their cars for inspection. The jam was caused apparently by a wholesale dispatch of notices after the postal strike ended, and the branch has temporarily ceased sending out more of them and will carefully regulate the flow in future. Drivers who haven't been able to have their cars inspected in the prescribed 10 days have also been assured that prosecution is not in immediate prospect.

However, the hope and aim of the branch is still to test all motor vehicles in the Greater Victoria area before the beginning of next year. One can't help wondering if it is possible.

The station is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. five days a week, Monday through Friday. For most motorists the only convenient times to attend will be during the lunch hour—and if there is a long lineup, that's out—and in the early evening. And Greater Victoria has a motor vehicle "population" of something like 75,000. The simple mathematics of it would indicate that the crowding of last week is going to be as nothing if all cars are to be wearing inspection stickers by January 1.

Nor does it seem likely that the congestion and the waiting will be much reduced next year if the compulsory inspection is to take place twice annually, unless provision is made to extend the hours of the testing centre to cover additional convenient time. To keep it open all day Saturday is one obvious improvement, and if this is too costly for the current budget, it could be closed in compensation on Mondays.

Storms Ahead

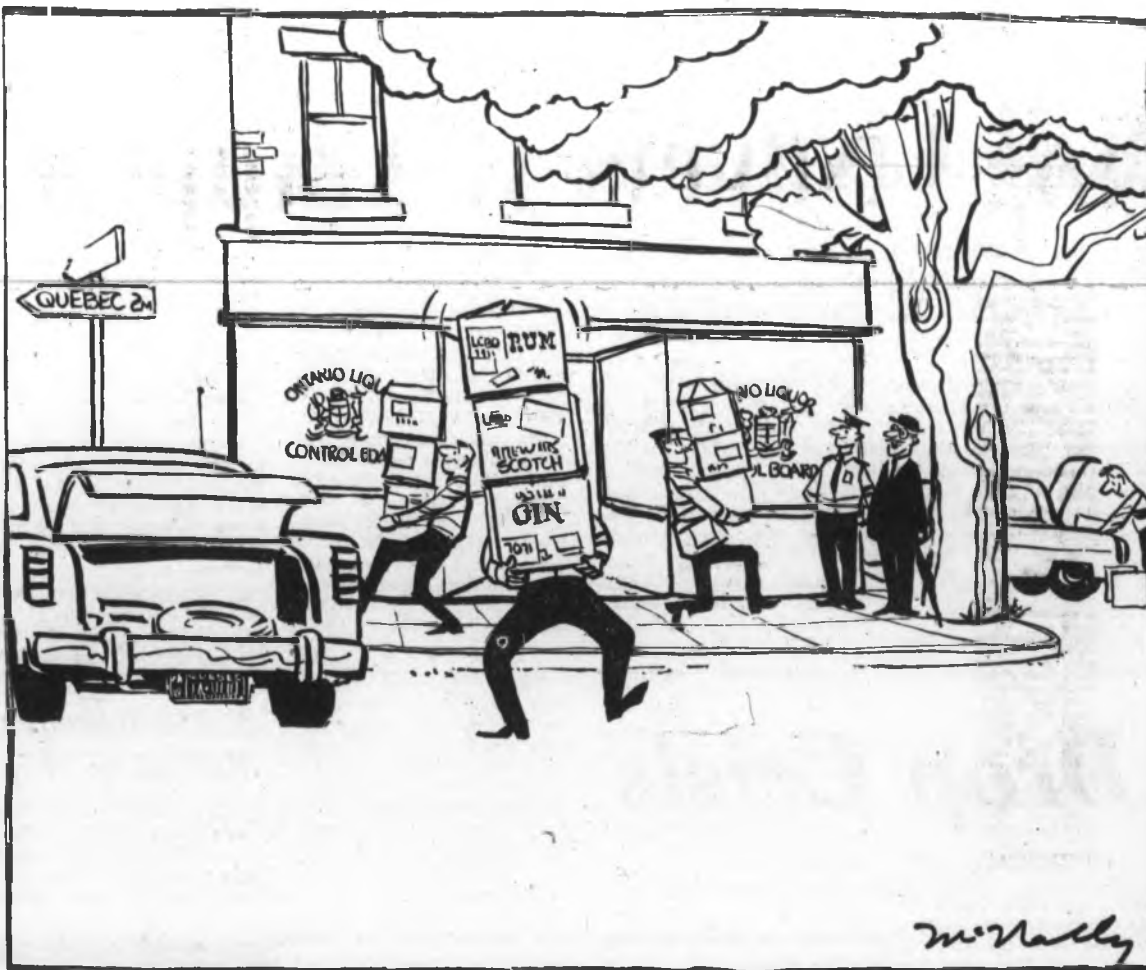

AN AMERICAN scientist at a meeting in Vienna has predicted that "extensive weather modification" may be possible within the next 20 years and has urged action now to assure international co-operation and control. Without such control, he foresees the opening of a Pandora's box of political problems.

If man does master the technology of changing the weather, how right he undoubtedly is about the political consequences! Even now, with the weather in its natural form, one might sometimes think Canada was a villainous nation, the storms that sweep into the United States so often being "bred in the Canadian north."

Imagine, then, if Canada were to grab all the moisture from the air flowing down over the Prairies for its own grain crops, leaving the central United States dry. Imagine if the Soviet Union decided to warm up Siberia, and in doing so melted enough Arctic ice to raise the sea-level and flood ports around the world.

In fact, even within national borders, there are going to be political problems if man controls the weather. Shall we have two weeks of rain to wet down the forests at the peak of the tourist season? Shall we turn off the snow for the city folks while the ski resorts are crying for it? Shall we make it cooler in Toronto and thereby hotter in Montreal? Send Victoria's sunshine to evaporate Vancouver's dripping fog?

Anyone like to become Canada's first Minister of Weather?

Mr. Stanfield's Political Prospects

By GREG CONNOLLEY

IT is getting close to one full year since Robert Stanfield was elected head of the federal Conservative party and in that time he came close to being prime minister and also suffered a disastrous defeat in a general election.

The political future for Mr. Stanfield now is not bright, nor for that matter are the prospects good for the Conservative party.

The Conservative MPs met recently in Ottawa for a special caucus to discuss policy and preparations for the coming parliamentary session.

It could have been a time for angry and frustrated party hands to turn on Mr. Stanfield and to give him a going over. Or, more in the Tory tradition, it might have been the occasion to spark some internecine warfare with Bob Stanfield as the prime target.

Yet from all accounts there were no attacks on Mr. Stanfield because of his lamentable failure in the election. No one demanded his head because he had led 95 Conservative MPs from the last Commons into electoral battle and returned with only 72.

There was an air of resignation among the Conservative MPs—not a feeling of helplessness but rather one of "what's the use of worrying about the election, let's get on with the future."

Mr. Stanfield told newsmen that he had not been roasted by his members although he acknowledged that at various times since the election a number of Conservatives had told him of his shortcomings as a campaigner.

He said with a rueful smile that he wasn't too satisfied with himself either.

He spoke of the need for new communications, new policies, the requirement for building Tory strength in urban areas and among youth.

But perhaps most significant of all Mr. Stanfield said that perhaps the party needed a new "style." And he appeared to include himself in that category.

It was in the matter of "style" that the Tories were outclassed in the campaign. They fought an old-fashioned, dull election, meeting in dreary halls with tiresome speeches by Mr. Stanfield and other Conservatives. The entire effect was sad and depressing.

There was the contrast with the dramatic Mr. Trudeau whipping across the country in his big jet, the Trudeau girls and the outdoor speeches that were short and snappy.

This was one campaign where for a change the Opposition were mostly on the defensive, rather than the government party.

Mr. Stanfield is well aware of all that. He knows the campaign was a flop and he realizes that he was a bust too.

He says that the party operated under some difficulties and he probably was referring to the weak Tory position in Quebec as opposed to Trudeau's solid strength.

He may have been referring also to certain strains within the party such as the enmity former leader John Diefenbaker held for national party president Dalton Camp.

Perhaps when Mr. Stanfield ponders over the things that went wrong in a campaign that seemed so promising for him at the outset, he wonders about events in the last weeks of the Pearson administration.

Perhaps he recalls the evening of February 19 when the government was defeated on a budget measure. There were the hectic days that followed, Pearson flying back from a Caribbean vacation to rally his panicky cabinet.

There was the impasse in the Commons with the Tories declaring the government had been defeated and had no right to carry on or bring business before the House.

Mr. Stanfield then may have been too decent a man. He let Mr. Pearson have 24 hours to think things over. He permitted Pearson to launch an effective campaign to gain public support for his government on a "no election" cry.

Eventually the Liberals with the aid of the Creditists won a formal vote of confidence and restored their position. But it had been in the hands of Mr. Stanfield to refuse to deal with them at all—to force them into an election.

He could have done it and he would have caught the Grits in great disarray—Pearson resigning, the leadership convention not yet held.

I Beg to Differ...

Revenge for the Corpulent

By FRANK LOWE

HERE'S a great big hurrah for Dr. Thaddeus Kostubala, Northwestern University school psychiatrist. Because he is telling all of us who by today's standards are considered overweight:

"Take heart. Continue to grow in spirit and stature and emphasize the quality of life... do not quail at the wizened restrictive old of the skinny."

For years now I felt I was alone in contending that there was something wrong about this cult of the cadaverous. To be beautiful a girl is supposed to be a fellow hugged her tightly, he'd get bruises.

And a man whose shape had become mature, instead of reminding one of an adolescent who had only recently returned from a month-long camping trip where he had had to cook his own food, was told he must go on a diet.

Even tougher to endure than the snide remarks about one's physical appearance, however, was the mental strain. A fellow who liked to look becomingly mature and properly well-fed was constantly made to feel guilty.

He wasn't built as imposingly as he was because he liked it. Oh, no.

A plump man is told every day that he is plump because there is something wrong with his fat.

Today a fellow who likes to eat is not considered, as he once was, a fellow with a healthy appetite. He is told he eats the way he does because he is frustrated, insecure, inadequate and anxious.

All along, of course, I have contended that the one thing designed to make me feel frustrated, insecure, inadequate and anxious is when I can't eat properly.

Take away my three squares a day, in fact, and you're liable to have a first-class mental case on your hands.

Naturally, no one took me seriously. The world went its merry way—women continued to subsist on celery and cottage cheese and any person brave enough to eat normally was hustled off to a friendly, corner psychiatrist.

But now along comes Dr. Thaddeus Kostubala. He says: "There is a growing revolution against being skinny; the generously endowed (don't that lovely phrase?) are tired of feeling guilty about their weight."

"Corpulence," he points out, "has not always been regarded as being a fault, and there is a possibility that the worm will turn."

Well Thaddeus, old pal, this fat worm can't turn because he has never believed in the skinny fad. But it is sure nice to have a psychiatrist on my side—for a change.

My suggestion now is that we who live on the partly side should start to mount a campaign. Not only to persuade the plump part of the population to lose its guilt feelings—but to make every skinny person feel guilty.

It will be our turn to walk down the street and, on spotting a cadaverous friend, go up to him, pat him on the bum, and say: "Man, you must be so frustrated, insecure, inadequate and anxious you can't enjoy your meals. You'd better rush off to see a psychiatrist. You're sick, real sick."

Ah, revenge—it will be almost as sweet as a slab of fresh-baked, deep-dish, hot apple pie covered with a double scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Washington Calling

Betrayal Jeopardizes Halt in Arms Race

By MARQUIS CHILDS

SHORTLY after he had left his aide-memoire on Czechoslovakia at the White House, Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin let it be known that the document expressed the hope the Czech invasion would not impair Soviet-American relations. It was the virtuous—and probably futile—hope of one who has worked earnestly to improve those relations.

At the same moment, by one of the weird coincidences of an improbable time, Secretary of State Dean Rusk was testifying before the Democratic platform committee not only on Vietnam but on the need to increase East-West trade and broaden the exchanges with the Communist bloc. How much of recent hopeful beginnings have been consigned to the rubbish heap of history no one can now say.

The two nuclear giants were on the eve of the most fateful negotiation since the start of the atomic era. Agreement had been reached to start talks on imposing limits on both offensive and defensive nuclear missiles. The only missing ingredient was a specific time. Without an agreement, it is no secret here, the forces in the United States and presumably also in the Soviet Union, pressing for an antiballistic-missile defence will prevail. This will mean spending on a scale making the $70-billion-plus U.S. defence budget look like a shopping list for the five-and-dime store. It will mean taxes unparalleled even during the Second World War. It can mean something very like a garrison state.

Yet with Moscow having just demonstrated that even an ally is not safe from betrayal by force, can any president enter into negotiation for a treaty that depends in part at least on the good faith of the signatories? As the tragic details come in of the destruction of an experiment in liberalization, with a brave people once again ground under a conqueror's heel, public opinion will be inflamed. For Czech-Americans, this is a bitter reply of 1948 when Jan Masaryk, a survivor of Czechoslovakia's democratic past, was thrown to his death from a window of the foreign office.

But, though emotion may prevail, the awesome realities of a new upward round in the arms race can hardly be ignored. Just at this point an expert witness has come forward to underscore some of those realities. In his forthcoming book, "The Essence of Security," Robert S. McNamara, the former secretary of defence, expresses in language of unmistakable clarity how action and reaction between Moscow and Washington forces the spiral ever upward.

He tells how after he took over the Pentagon he found that the Soviet Union had a "very small operational arsenal of intercontinental missiles." This was in the aftermath of a loudly trumpeted change in the 1960 presidential campaign of "missile gap." However, the former secretary adds, the Soviet did possess the technological and industrial capacity to enlarge their nuclear arsenal very substantially over the succeeding several years.

Although he had no information that Moscow intended to use that potential, McNamara launched a massive buildup which, he maintains, gave the United States its current superiority in numbers of warheads and deliverable megatons. The Soviets were, of course, completely aware of this buildup, and they in turn launched a large-scale program to insure that their return-strike capability could not be wiped out by an American first strike.

Then McNamara says: "What is essential to understand here is that the Soviet Union and the United States mutually influence one another's strategic plans. Whatever their intentions or our intentions, actions—or even realistically potential actions—on either side relating to the buildup of nuclear forces necessarily trigger reactions on the other side. It is precisely this action-reaction phenomenon that fuels an arms race."

McNamara once again the point he stressed while he was secretary—the utter futility of an antiballistic-missile system, since such a system cannot in the foreseeable future prevent a missile strike costing millions of casualties and virtually wiping out any organized order of life. McNamara weakened his own case against the ABM by authorizing construction of a "thin" system to protect against Chinese missiles in the '70s.

The trigger of action and reaction is perfectly illustrated in the debate over whether the United States should go all out for an ABM system that will cost no less than $40 billion and perhaps, as former President Eisenhower has predicted, closer to $100 billion. Reports became current that the Soviets were building such a system to protect Moscow and certain other areas. This was the signal for a demand from members of Congress most closely allied with the military-industrial complex for the United States to start at once to match the Soviets.

While intelligence reports about the Soviet ABM have since been downgraded, the wave of reaction stirred by the rape of Czechoslovakia will serve those who want no agreements of any kind with Moscow. It will serve those pressing for more and more arms as the only security, and the voices of reason are all too likely to be blanketed out.

King Statue

Similarity Only Slight

From The Montreal Star

THERE now stands on Parliament Hill, behind the East Block and between it and the Senate, a new, nine-foot statue of William Lyon Mackenzie King, one-time prime minister of Canada. There still unhappily remains a large number of Canadians who remember that statesman in life and our advice to them is to stay away, let their grandchildren go. Mr. King in bronze bears only slight similarity to the Mr. King they knew.

The short, pudgy, peunchy, fuss-budget figure, so familiar for so many years has vanished. In his place stands a slimmer, more dignified figure, with his nose-buttoned up to the neck. In life Mr. King was, in very truth, the middle-aged man that ever scuttled ship or cut a throat—and scuttled and slit he often did. But he never looked the part.

The sculptor, Raoul Hunter, decided, it is said, to convey the gentleman's innate strength. In so doing he has produced a face, bony and hard, almost scowling and compelling. It bears, in some curious way, a faint likeness to Mr. King, but it is not Mr. King in any of his known moods.

This is not the man who loved reading Tennyson to his lady friends, while serving them cucumber sandwiches and tea. It is not the man who, during the conscription crisis of 1944, sent to the parliamentary library to draw spiritual sustenance from that sappy, moralistic book, "The Road to Nowhere."

It doesn't, one may suppose, really matter. In a few decades, the last boy or girl who saw Mr. King in the flesh will be dead, and a new generation of historians will be revising the national view of him. When that time comes somebody should remember that the man who did all the noble—and ignoble—things that Mr. King did, bore little resemblance to this rugged and formidable figure standing there in summer temperatures, year after year, buttoned up to the neck in his heavy bronze overcoat.

Nothing but trouble lies ahead if we continue this tradition of commemorating our prime ministers by statue. Sixty years ago it was all right, as the dignity and strength of the Macdonald, Laurier and Borden statues go to show. But sculptures nowadays no longer go for representational art. When driven into it, as Mr. Hunter was, they try to show the inward essence of their subject. The trouble was Mr. King, though in political terms richly endowed with the killer instinct, never looked remotely like a killer. Instead he looked more like an aging and incompetent YMCA secretary than anything else.

The story goes that this continuing adventure into memorial art is already bogging down. R. B. Bennett is not yet up, nor is Arthur Meighen. Report has it that the artists and the supervising experts are at loggerheads. Doubtless some future critic will remark that the Grits are getting their men up but the Tories can't—an unworthy and unjust remark. Perhaps the Tories can take comfort out of the fact that if their Bennett and Meighen turn out like Mr. King, they may be better off without them.

"Have you ever seen anything as ludicrous as kids today?"

Dubcek's Wings Severely Clipped

By RICHARD BESTON, from Moscow

The regime of reformer Alexander Dubcek will continue in Czechoslovakia, but its freedom will be severely curtailed and some Soviet troops will remain permanently on the country's frontier with West Germany, the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia have agreed.

Only the broad outlines of this tenuous compromise settlement were indicated in the final communique which ended nearly a week of Soviet-led invasion and occupation of Czechoslovakia, capped by four days of secret Kremlin negotiations.

The accommodation also began a second stage in the crisis—the long, difficult search for order in a Communist world shattered by last week's Soviet-led invasion.

Whether the compromise will work or not, remains uncertain. The communique touched or strongly implied these major points:

- An agreement on an eventual, phased withdrawal of occupation forces, but with a permanent garrison of Soviet troops left behind on Czechoslovakia's border with West Germany.

- The return to power of Czechoslovak Communist Party leader Dubcek, Premier Oldrich Cernik and much of the leadership around them.

- Tight party control of all press media in Czechoslovakia.

- Severe limitations on Prague's freedom to conduct a foreign policy independent of Soviet and Communist allied positions.

- A wide range of further, yet unspecified restrictions on the Dubcek leadership.

- An end to political activity outside the framework of the Communist Party.

- Stiff new measures, including the possible use of Czechoslovak troops, to deal with any public resistance to the compromise.

- Limitations on Czechoslovakia's search for broader economic co-operation with the West.

On occupation forces from the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria, estimated at 200,000, the communique noted:

"Agreement was reached on the terms on the withdrawal of these troops from its territory as the situation in Czechoslovakia normalizes."

Reliable East European sources here confirmed the decision to station a permanent military garrison along Czechoslovakia's Western frontier. The communique offered a justification for the decision without specifically mentioning it.

The document emphasized the military threat from West Germany, specifically that country's alleged desire to change existing European borders. It later spoke of the need to strengthen the defence capacity of both the socialist community and the Warsaw Pact, of which Czechoslovakia is a member.

The formal compromise failed to specify dates either for the beginning or the end of any general withdrawal. One source indicated that the bulk of the withdrawal will take place in stages, from the cities and towns to military reservations in the country, and eventually home.

BACOKGROZD

It took the Kremlin four days of tense negotiations involving six nations before a final agreement was hammered out. By Sunday the talks had turned into a full-scale Communist summit session including leaders from Russia's four military allies in Eastern Europe.

Within the Western diplomatic community, the prevailing view was that the reform Dubcek leadership paid a disastrous Soviet price for its return to power. It was felt that Dubcek is left with little more than the slogan, if that, from his democratization program that won Czechoslovakia so many new political freedoms during the past seven months.

But if Czechoslovakia lost in this crisis, the Soviet Union also suffered.

The Kremlin was forced into one major concession—the return of Dubcek. By conceding this point, Soviet leaders admitted that the invasion was not a viable answer to a political leadership they had attacked for complicity in an alleged right-wing counter-revolution.

In effect, the Kremlin badly miscalculated the depth of national unity behind a single, popular leader.

Diplomatic sources suggest that military intervention based on major policy miscalculations will cost the Kremlin enormous prestige and confidence, within the Communist world and elsewhere.

Czechoslovak sources here were in despair over the final agreement. They saw virtually no breathing room in what they recognised as a bare compromise.

On freedom of the press, a fact in Czechoslovakia since last April, the communique was unmistakably clear.

Tight party and state control, it said, will ensure that public expression serves "socialist power, the guiding role of the working class and the Communist Party, the interests of developing and strengthening friendly relations with the peoples of the Soviet Union and the entire socialist community."

Any ideas Czechoslovakia might have had about new initiatives in the field of foreign affairs appeared out of the question. The communique underscored Czechoslovakia's determination "to unswervingly promote" policies sympathetic to wider Communist unity.

The distinct impression in this capital was that there are two overriding conclusions to be drawn from the compromise: a prolonged Soviet military presence in Czechoslovakia and a Dubcek leadership severely isolated and stripped of much of its power.

The real question now is whether the Czechoslovak people will buy the settlement from Dubcek or anybody else.

Uncontrolled Aggression Unique Trait

Man Sole Misfit

By IRVING S. BENGEISDORF

Scientific understanding of our aggressive behavior—leading not to its elimination but to its control—may well be the most urgent task that faces mankind today.

For of all the creatures that fight among themselves men are the only ones who try to settle their disputes by killing one another in war. We are the only species that is a mass murderer, the only misfit in our environment.

Our aggressive behavior has affected the entire earth. It has led not only to a potential planetary thermonuclear holocaust, but also to actual global air, water and land pollution and an on-going uncontrolled population explosion.

Why do we behave this way? We do not know. And this ignorance may be our undoing.

In a brilliant article entitled On War and Peace in Animals and Man, appearing in Science, the publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. N. Tinbergen writes:

"We now understand a great deal of the way our bodies function. The ignorance of ourselves which needs to be stressed today is ignorance about our behavior."

"It is the effects of our behavior that begin to endanger the very causes and effects of the functions of survival of our species and worse, of all life on earth."

Dr. Tinbergen, at the University of Oxford, Eng., is a famous ethologist—a zoologist who studies animal behavior.

Many animals show territorial behavior. The space and resources in which they live are divided among themselves and each animal defends its own range against competitors. But do two animals try to kill one another when they meet at a boundary? Not at all.

Dr. Tinbergen explains, "When neighboring territory owners meet near their common boundary each of the two is in a state of motivational conflict; attack behavior and withdrawal behavior are shown by both animals. Instead of proceeding to intrude, which would require the use of force, neighbors are contained by each other." By specific movements they signal to each other to "keep out."

Dr. Tinbergen adds, "They divide their living space in a bloodless way by using these threatening conflict movements as distance-keeping devices rather than actual fighting."

But this behavior involves single animals that defend their territories. There also are entire groups of animals that defend territories. This is known as group territorialism. And man is a group-territorialist.

Dr. Tinbergen continues, "Ethologists tend to believe that we still carry with us a number of behavioral characteristics of our animal ancestors, which cannot be eliminated by different ways of upbringing, and that group territorialism is one of these ancestral characteristics."

This is the key to our behavior, Dr. Tinbergen emphasizes, "In order to understand what makes us go to war, we have to recognize that man behaves very much like a group-territorial species. We too unite in the face of an outside danger to the group; we forget our differences."

"We too have threat gestures, for instance, angry facial expressions. And all of us use reassurance and appeasement signals, such as a friendly smile. And (unlike speech) these are universally understood; they cut across cultures, they are species-specific."

"And incidentally, even within a group sharing a common language, they are often more reliable guides to a man's intentions than speech, for speech (as we know now) rarely reflects our true motives. But our facial expressions often 'give us away.'"

This suggests that to know man's behavior one must concentrate on studies of group territoriality. But unlike other creatures, we do not settle our international disputes by the relatively harmless animal method of threat.

Why do we not stop and retreat but go beyond the point of no return so that our attack erupts into war without being kept in check by fear?

Because man is a misfit, according to Dr. Tinbergen. His cultural evolution—passing on his social experiences from one generation to the next—is outrunning his genetic evolution—passing on his biological experiences from one generation to the next.

Dr. Tinbergen explains, "Genetically we have not evolved very strikingly since Cro-Magnon man, but culturally we have changed beyond recognition, and are changing at an ever-increasing rate."

"It seems quite clear that our cultural evolution is at the root of the problem of war, of uninhibited mass killing. It is our cultural evolution that has caused the population explosion."

"Agriculture and technical knowhow have enabled us to grow food and to exploit other natural resources to such an extent that we can still feed (though only just) the enormous numbers of human beings on our crowded planet. The result is that we now live at a far higher density than that in which genetic evolution has molded our species."

"This, together with long-distance communication, leads to far more frequent, in fact to continuous intergroup contacts, and so to continuous external provocation of aggression. Yet this alone would not explain our increased tendency to kill each other; it would merely lead to continuous threat behavior."

Dr. Tinbergen feels that the upsetting of balance between aggression and fear (and this is what causes war) is due to the brainwashing and bullying of soldiers into all-out fighting machines and to our ability to make and use long-range weapons.

The first runs against animal behavior in that retreat or withdrawal, culturally, is considered despicable and 'cowardly.' The last runs counter to animal behavior in that it prevents human antagonists from meeting the way animals do—weaponless and 'face-to-face.'"

Dr. Tinbergen adds, "Very few air crews who are willing, indeed eager to drop their bombs 'on target' would be willing to strangle, stab or burn children (or, for that matter, adults) with their own hands."

What can we do? Dr. Tinbergen replies: "Everything I have said so far seems to me to allow for only one conclusion. Apart from doing our utmost to return to a reasonable population density, apart from stopping the progressive depletion and pollution of our habitat, we must pursue the biological study of animal behavior for clarifying problems of human behavior of such magnitude as that of our aggression and of education."

"Courtesy On The Highway Saves Lives"

Hon. Wesley D. Black, Minister of Highways

If every driver on our highways extended the same courtesy to other drivers as he thinks they should extend to him, there would be far fewer accidents and fatalities and highway driving would always be the pleasure it should be.

On the highway, courtesy means obeying the rules—e.g. staying in the right hand lane except when passing, using signal lights when changing lanes, avoiding excessively fast or slow speeds. Drivers towing trailers and other slower moving vehicles should not bunch up, but allow space between vehicles for safe passing.

Highway courtesy begins before the driver leaves home. He makes sure that his car's steering, brakes, tires, lights and engine are in excellent condition and that he, himself, feels rested and alert.

In B.C., we have built our highways to make safe, courteous driving a pleasure. Only you the driver, however, can determine if these highways are used properly and courteously or abused injuriously or even fatally!

The Unheroic Presidency

By JOSEPH KRAFT, from Chicago

Whatever happens to Senator Eugene McCarthy, he has introduced to the American political scene a concept of the presidency that merits discriminating attention and maybe even emulation.

From the beginning of the campaign to the end, McCarthy has at all times stressed the theme of a president who is not a hyperactive superman, wound up like Laocoon and the serpents with all the problems of the universe.

He has figured instead an ordinary man with a rather low metabolism. The McCarthy president is an unheroic president.

Way back in Wisconsin, at the beginning of the campaign, McCarthy defined the presidency as an office "which belongs not to the man who holds it but to the people of this nation"; its function was "to give some direction to the movement of the country, mainly by setting the people free."

And in California, at the end of the trail, he told a group of delegates that a president who kept the sword of office to himself would be "stronger personally but far less effective than if he distributed the sword to the troops."

Not only has McCarthy spoken about an unheroic president, but he has acted out the role in his own campaign. He expresses himself not as though he knows everything there is to know but with heavy emphasis on such phrases of folksy imprecision as "sort of," "kind of," and "pretty good."

A growing literature recounts how he blew critical encounters with fund-raisers in New York and delegates in Washington.

He spent the precious few hours before his California debate with Robert Kennedy not baring up on issues, but shooting the breeze with the poet Robert Lowell.

His failure to campaign before the New York primary drew from one of his sympathetic admirers the remark: "McCarthy has turned the new politics into the no-politics."

But how does the no-politics of unheroic leadership stack up against the tasks of the presidency? In some cases not badly at all.

A president less concerned with being the master of every situation, not bound by his own mystique to give better than he got in every fight, would have spared the country immense pain in Vietnam.

And the key to avoiding future Vietnams probably lies in not pressing so hard for clearest results at the margins of American power.

A strong case can also be made that the best way to beat the problem of race is to lower the temperature and tranquilize the country.

At least it is true that Great Society programs have had very slow going in the Congress and at the local level because they got so trampled up with the controversial personality of Lyndon Johnson.

But unheroic leadership has distinct limitations.

There are areas, notably areas involving the economy and the maintenance of law and order, where strong presidential leadership is essential.

But McCarthy has a point. There are other areas—mainly areas new to the orbit of American political responsibility—where the unheroic presidency makes sense.

And if that lesson has been driven home, then that strange political odyssey that is the McCarthy campaign can count itself successful.

Merrill Lynch Cited

Charges of advising some of their clients to sell shares of Douglas Aircraft and at the same time urging others to purchase them have been made by the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington against the largest broker-dealer firm in the U.S.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, along with 14 officers and salesmen and 15 institutional investors, are to answer charges of fraud for their alleged actions.

The SEC charges Merrill Lynch now in June, 1966, that Douglas Aircraft would show a sharp drop, and passed on that information to certain institutional investors, including two mutual funds.

At the same time it is alleged they withheld the information from other shareholders and kept advising them to purchase the stock.

Two of the mutual funds named in the charge are Dreyfus Corp. and Investors Management Co.

Douglas Aircraft subsequently ran into financial difficulties which now have been solved through a merger with McDonnell Aircraft.

The annual report of Neon Products says the company had to obtain a waiver from Prudential Life Insurance of America on a $3,750,000 promissory note before it could carry out its program of takeovers.

The 7 1/2 per cent note, payable in annual installments until December, 1981, precluded Neon from acquiring control of companies carrying on business dissimilar to that of Neon's. New terms for the loan now are being negotiated, according to James Pattison, Neon president.

Neon's working capital must be kept above $2,500,000, according to the agreement (it now is $5,280,000) while a limit has been set on dividend payments. The waiver had to be obtained before Neon could assimilate Overwatera Stores and Northern Paint.

The report also says Pattison was granted an option to buy 40,000 Neon shares at $17 last April for a term ended April 22, 1973, and with a clause limiting the option to 20,000 shares in the current year. Neon's shares recently traded at $45 and are currently $33.

OPTION GRANTED

In an optimistic statement to shareholders, Pattison said "we are planning to diversify further through entrance into new markets that have an ultimate interest in servicing and fulfilling the needs of Canada's consumer population."

Argus Corporation, which recently sold its 2,400,000 shares of Canadian Breweries to Rothmans for an estimated $28,800,000, is one of the leading investment companies which must be considered looking for new holdings.

One suggestion in market circles is that Argus would like to win control over Noranda Mines. Argus holds 800,000 shares, equivalent to 16.3 per cent of the share capital of Hollinger Mines, and Hollinger is a fast growing shareholder of Noranda.

It is also pointed out there are other ways than through Hollinger that Argus could strengthen its shareholding position in Noranda. One is through open market buying, and Noranda's strength in recent weeks, when other leading base metal companies have been slipping, suggests this has been happening.

In the most recent lists of insider traders, Hollinger appears for the first time as a major shareholder of Noranda, indicating it owns at least 10 per cent of Noranda's stock.

It is also pointed out there are other ways than through Hollinger that Argus could strengthen its shareholding position in Noranda. One is through open market buying, and Noranda's strength in recent weeks, when other leading base metal companies have been slipping, suggests this has been happening.

Net profits of Lafarge Cement of North America dipped to $426,000 (33 cents) in the first half of 1968, down from $609,000 (49 cents) a year earlier.

Carlings Top Detroit Sole Leaders Again

DETROIT — Vancouver Car, Division of the National Lacrosse League, placed sole possession of the Western Division title Tuesday by defeating the Eastern Division leaders, Detroit Olympics, 17-13, before 4,078 fans.

The victory lifted Carlings two points ahead of Portland Adanacs. Olympics missed a chance to clinch the title in their division.

Carlings were outscored in just one period, taking a 9-5 lead in the first period and extending the margin to 17-11 entering the final 20 minutes. Olympics scored the only two goals of the final period.

It was the second game of Vancouver's four-game Eastern trip. Carlings lost, 12-11, in overtime to Peterborough on Sunday. Carlings play tonight in Toronto and Thursday in Montreal.

Gary Stevens and Gord Erickson each scored three goals for the winners while Bob Salt, Dennis Nagy, Bill Barbour and Whitey Nelson each added two goals.

Bill Robinson, Sid Warwick and Bill Chisholm scored the other goals.

Tom Conlin had four goals and two assists for the losers. Glen Lotton, with two goals, Neil Armstrong, Elmer Tran, Bob Brown, Jerry McKenna, Gaylord Powless, Bill Squires and Jim Henderson also scored for Detroit.

Placickers, headed by Saskatchewan's Bill Goods, hold down the top four places in the Western Football Conference scoring race while a rangy flanker is making a one-man race for Eastern Conference honors.

Goods has 39 points on 12 converts, seven field goals and six singles for a four-point lead over Calgary's Larry Robinson.

Peter Kempf of Edmonton and Ted Gerela of British Columbia Lions have 27 and 26 points respectively. Pass-catching Terry Evansen of Calgary is in fifth place with 24 points on four touchdowns.

Flanker Wirt Tucker of Ottawa has scored nine touchdowns, all on passes, to lead the east with 54 points while placekicking Don Sutherland, also of Ottawa, is a distant second with 35 points.

Knudson, who has won about $90,000 on the Professional Golfers Association tour in the United States, had the low individual score at the Canada Cup matches in Tokyo two years ago.

It is the second year in a row that Baiding and Knudson have been named to the team.

Orioles Take Giant Step In Chase for Pennant

Baltimore Orioles must appear like giant condors to Detroit Tigers these days.

Just when it seemed the Tigers had shaken off a rush by the Orioles and Cleveland Indians a few weeks ago, the Orioles have come back strongly and Tuesday moved to within four games of the American League leaders.

Baltimore climbed a game and a half by sweeping a doubleheader from the Oakland Athletics, 5-3 and 7-2, while the Tigers were stopped by Chicago White Sox, 2-1.

Nothing has gone right lately for the Tigers, who have lost five of their last six games. The Orioles are red hot and have won 17 of their last 24 games.

McLain sent home Denny McLain, Detroit's 25-game winner, was to be started Tuesday but was sent back to Detroit for treatment to his bothersome shoulder on Monday.

John Hiller took over for McLain but Chicago managed 12 hits off Hiller, finally scoring the winning run on an error in the ninth inning.

Orioles suffered a three-homer splurge by Athletics in the sixth inning of the first game, winning on rookie Merv Rettenmund's two-run pinch homer in the bottom of the ninth inning — his first major league homer.

Wally Bunker pitched a six-hitter to pick up the win in the second game with the help of home runs by Don Buford and Curt Blefary, who also homered in the first game.

Boston Red Sox broke a third-place tie with the Indians by dumping Cleveland, 7-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Ray Culp.

YANKEES GET SPLIT New York Yankees moved to within a half game of the first division by gaining a split in a doubleheader with California Angels, winning the first game, 2-0, before being stopped by the same score.

Bruce Lock's three-run double broke a 25-inning scoring famine by Minnesota Twins, leading his club to a 7-1 victory in the second game of a doubleheader with Washington Senators. Senators won the opener, 2-0.

In the National League, Larry Taylor suffered his sixth straight loss as the New York Mets blanked the leading St. Louis Cardinals, 4-0, behind the six-hit pitching of Dick Selma.

Second place San Francisco Giants stayed ahead of Cincinnati Reds by downing the Chicago Cubs, 8-4, as rookie Bobby Bonds drove in six runs with two home runs and a ground out.

Cincinnati drubbed Philadelphia Phillies, 10-0, as Tony Coninger pitched a four-hitter, struck out 11 and drilled two hits, including a three-run double.

Houston Astros dumped Los Angeles Dodgers deeper into the cellar with a 4-2 victory. The Dodgers had more bad news Tuesday with the announcement by their team physician, Dr. Robert Woods, that ace right-hander Don Drysdale may be out for the season with an inflamed shoulder.

England defeated Australia by 226 runs in the afternoon. Australia were all out for 125.

England and Australia thus tied the series with one victory each and three games drawn.

Trapp got off to a shaky start with erratic drives on the first two holes but took advantage of a hot putter to score his 67. He used 15 putts on the front line and came home in 13.

Goldstrand, completing his third year on the U.S. pro tour, earned four birdie putts and hit 13 greens in regulation figures.

Trapp qualified Monday for the Canadian pro tour championship at Woodbridge, Ont., Sept. 13-15 which offers $15,000 in prize money, by finishing in a seventh-place tie in the Atlantic Open at Moncton.

Vancouver Island hunters take to the bush Saturday with the opening of the season for blue grouse, willow grouse and black bear.

There may also be a few deer going through weekend game checks, because for the first time ever in British Columbia bow and arrow hunters are to be allowed to hunt buck deer one week prior to the opening of the regular deer hunting season.

That means that bow hunters will be able to stalk the deer before they become spooked by gunfire. They should be able to get much closer to them than they have been getting the last couple of years when bow hunters were given a week tagged on to the end of the season.

Bird hunters should be particularly cautious this opening weekend.

If they spot something moving in the bush, they shouldn't automatically expect a covey of grouse to fly out. If they are startled to see a bush suddenly moving across the slash, they shouldn't be surprised. In both cases, it could be a camouflaged bow and arrow hunter.

A note of caution to band-tailed pigeon hunters. Season on them doesn't open until Sunday. They are classed as a migratory bird, and in addition to the regular hunting licence you must have a migratory bird permit (also good for waterfowl) which costs $2 and must be purchased at a post office — not a sub-post office.

Hunters are going to get a better break than they have had for the past two or three years.

This has been a miserable August as far as weather is concerned, but now it is going to be some good. There is no danger of fire in the woods. It is too wet for slash burning at the moment.

All the main logging gates on Vancouver Island will be open for the hunters Saturday morning.

This access is a privilege and hunters and other recreationists who use these logging roads must adhere to certain rules which have been discussed and agreed upon by the recreationists who, over a number of years, have negotiated with the logging companies and the government to get the roads open for public recreation.

Certain areas where there is active logging will be barred and that means barred to all recreationists, including hunters. Even company employees will be barred from hunting in areas barred to other people.

There is a trend now to putting recreationists on their honor. Signs on trees in the middle of the road are replacing the old gates which are gradually disappearing. Nowadays you see more gates in our own provincial parks (where they are springing up this year like mushrooms) than you see in the woods.

But gate or sign, it means no access by vehicle, on foot or any other way.

Camping is not allowed in most timber holdings, except in a few where proper campsites have been provided, such as by the Canadian Forest Products, Tahsis and Rayonier in the north of the Island and by B.C. Forest Products at Port Renfrew and Cowichan Lake.

Crown Zellerbach holdings have access time limits. Ladiesmith gate will be open 6 a.m. to 2 p.m.; Nanaimo Lakes, 6 a.m. to dusk; Nitinat gate, 6 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. (this is not the access to Nitinat River and Bamfield where gates are open all weekend, but no camping allowed); Wolfe Lake at Courtenay, 6 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Comox 6 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Outlook for shooters is optimistic.

Grouse seem to be in the same spots they have been in other years and they are not expected to migrate out of the slash for a while yet. Survival of chicks appears about average with most broods spotted still having about four chicks.

Some likely spots include Boulder Creek area of Copper Canyon, Sprout Lake along the Tofino Road, well-known spots in Northwest Bay holdings, Nanaimo Lakes, Deerholme, Meade Creek, 19 Creek and a few spots in the Gordon River and Cayuse areas, which normally aren't the hottest game areas.

Slash which was logged and burned five or 10 years ago and where there is now a fair growth of willow and huckleberry is a good spot to look for grouse. Fireweed slash is not so good.

Pigeons seem to be fairly plentiful, especially in the Cayuse and Nanaimo Lakes areas and along the east coast of the Island where arbutus trees are plentiful. Good numbers have been seen in logging slashes feeding on seed and huckleberries.

Game biologist Donald Blood says the deer outlook is good and from deer counts now under way it looks like a good or better a deer hunting season as last year. Two mild winters in a row have brought about good survival. There are lots of young animals in the yearling and two-year-old class around. Deer season opens Sept. 7.

Northern part of the Island is expected to be big deer producer this year.

This weekend game checks will be held at Cowichan Road, Copper Canyon, Northwest Bay, Campbell River and Alberni. For deer season checks will also be held at Colwood.

LONGVIEW, Wash. — With Sadler, prominent Victoria sportsman, is under extensive care at Cowitz General Hospital in Longview following a three-car fatal accident Sunday on U.S. highway No. 5.

Sadler, who underwent a tracheotomy operation Tuesday afternoon to assist his breathing, his wife, Bets, and daughter, Fran, all received multiple injuries in the accident, which occurred when they were returning home from the Babe Ruth Baseball world series in Klamath Falls, Ore.

Miss Sadler, who was the least severely injured with multiple contusions and possible concussion, said that her father has crushed ribs, a punctured lung and multiple cuts as well as a broken nose, finger, wrist and leg.

Miss Sadler said Tuesday, "I saw Dad for a short while today. He's very low."

Mrs. Sadler suffered a fractured arm and dislocated shoulder in addition to internal injuries.

TWO OTHERS KILLED
A Washington State patrol spokesman said that a car attempting to enter the freeway and head south, moved right across the path of the Sadler car which was in the passing lane, and was hit broadside, and spun into a car waiting to turn left in the southbound passing lane.

The occupants of the car entering the freeway, Howard Pittenger, 71, and his wife Vera, 65, of Cottage Grove, Ore., were both killed.

"The Pittenger car was a total wreck," the spokesman said, "The Sadler car received about $1,200 damage."

Sadler has been involved in minor sport in Victoria for many years. He is currently an international director and Pacific Northwest director for Babe Ruth baseball, Lower Island director of minor soccer and an executive member of Victoria O'Keefe and Victoria West soccer clubs.

Two Royals Suspended

VANCOUVER — Centre forward Henri Klein, the club's leading scorer, and halfback Joaquin Rey have been fined $50 and suspended for five days leaving Vancouver Royals a man short of the minimum for their Friday game in Dallas.

Klein was disciplined for "violent conduct" which led to his ejection from an Aug. 15 game at Washington while Rey was set down for attempting to kick an opponent Aug. 10 in Vancouver.

The suspensions cut the Vancouver active roster to 14. It is expected Royals will be allowed to play Friday's game although regulations call for 15 players.

Britain Rejects Ban On Nigerian Arms

LONDON (AP) — Britain rejected Tuesday a call to stop supplying arms to federal Nigeria in its war against breakaway Biafra.

The call came in a motion signed by more than 50 Labor members of Parliament during a debate in an emergency session of the House of Commons.

Commonwealth Secretary George Thomson said the civil war is "too complex to be solved simply by Britain turning her back on Nigeria as a traditional supplier of the means of national defence."

"The real question that becomes more difficult each day is what policies will minimize and shorten the sufferings of all Nigerians, Ibos and non-Ibos alike," he said. The Ibos live in Biafra.

It appeared that the Ibos "are risking bringing upon themselves the threatened invasion we are all anxious to see avoided."

NEGOTIATIONS NEEDED

The federal government was not likely to be responsive "to appeals to stop and give up what they are fighting for" unless Biafran leaders were ready to meet them on the question of unity.

Thomson said that Britain could not have stayed neutral when the civil war began in the summer of 1967.

"What on earth would other Commonwealth countries have thought if we had reacted by an immediate cessation of supplies?"

Britain was exporting carefully-controlled quantities of arms to Nigeria.

BULK COMES 'ELSEWHERE'

"We have not supplied military aircraft or bombs. Nigeria is obtaining the bulk of her supplies elsewhere."

Stopping arms supplies might make the Ibos less willing to negotiate and "Russia would be only too willing to fill the gap and gain the influence we would lose."

Labor member James Griffiths, a former colonial secretary, said Britain should persuade the Lagos authorities not to launch their military assault on Biafra.

Bombed Strip Halts Second Relief Lift

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The Swedish charter airline Transair reported Tuesday one of its DC-7B airliners ferried nine tons of food into Biafra from the Portuguese island of Sao Thome Monday. It said a second mercy mission sponsored by Scandinavian churches was abandoned because the landing strip had been bombed.

Canadian Red Cross Wants C-130 Pilot

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Red Cross is searching for a pilot experienced in the operation of Hercules aircraft following authorization by the International Committee of the Red Cross to increase the use of aircraft for relief work out of Spain.

At present the ICRC operates one DC-6 out of Santa Isabel Airport.

Under the new authorization four additional aircraft will be permitted to operate out of Fernando Po for the movement of relief supplies.

The national Red Cross Societies of Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden have assigned four aircraft—three DC-6B's and one C-130 Hercules—for exclusive use of the ICRC.

Cadets School's Head Leaving

Graduating cadets at Fleet School Esquimalt will be saying goodbye Thursday afternoon at completion of exercises to Cmdr. Alex. G. Kilpatrick, commander of the school for the past three years.

Cmdr. Kilpatrick will transfer to Halifax to become chief staff officer to Brig. J. K. McDonald, commander of the Maritime Operational Test Evaluation Force there.

"Esquimalt has been a very interesting and challenging job, especially in being there during the new organization of forces. I feel the system works quite well and we are producing the right kind of officers and men for the fleet," he said.

AWARDS

Thursday's graduation exercises will include presentation of the Queen's Sword to the best all-around cadet displaying officer-like qualities and the best examples of leadership. The Hampton-Gray Shield will be presented to the cadet judged to be the best sportsman. The cadet scoring highest in professional exams will receive the Department of National Defence Telescope.

There will be a graduation parade at the school at 3 p.m. Thursday.

COMING HOME

The cadets are bound home to Victoria from San Francisco aboard HMCS Yukon, McKenzie and Columbia. The ships have been at sea five weeks and have also called at Pearl Harbor and San Diego.

The 47 second-year cadets and 10 third-year cadet-midshipmen were training in seamanship, weapons and astronomy.

How to Talk To Your Children

Why do so many parents have difficulty in handling their children? Part of the trouble is how little each parent knows the other, points out an instructive article in September Reader's Digest. You'll learn that talking with your child requires that you show respect and understanding. Learning how to handle children's "mixed-up feelings" can make the difference between a battlefield and a happy home. Find out how to reach children and how to handle parental anger. Abduction Charge Ends in Acquittal

A Vancouver man was acquitted Tuesday in Central Magistrate's Court on a charge of abducting his daughter. A similar charge laid against the man was dismissed last April. Glen Gild Stewart was acquitted by Magistrate J. A. Byers of abducting the child in Oak Bay between Dec. 27, 1967, and Jan. 3. A charge of unlawfully detaining his son in Oak Bay between Dec. 26, 1967, and Jan. 3 was dismissed in April by Magistrate William Ostler.

Magistrate Byers added: "Be motion of autofs acquit by defence counsel Alan Bigelow. Magistrate Ostler dismissed the charge April 17 when he said the Crown's evidence in no way supported the charge."

Magistrate Byers added: "Before leaving the case, I think it is fair to mention what learned counsel Mr. Bigelow has mentioned; that the informant, having failed in the trial of the previous proceedings before Magistrate Ostler, elected to file this information the very day after the order of acquittal was signed."

"He suggests the proceedings are more in the nature of persecution than prosecution."

A 15-year-old boy was sentenced to 18 months in jail on a charge of car theft. The boy pleaded guilty Saturday when court was told he stole a car Aug. 16 and was seen driving it 10 minutes later.

He was raised from juvenile court to adult court.

The minimum fine of $200 was imposed against William Hewitt, 819 Fort, when he pleaded guilty to a breach of the Income Tax Act. Court was told he failed to remit $1,500 deducted from employees in April.

Hewitt said he got a large contract but the contractor couldn't pay him.

Duncan Frazer, 50, of Vancouver, was placed on a $100 bond for six months when he pleaded guilty to vagrancy. Court was told he had been twice evicted from hotels in Victoria and had 27 cents on him, shaving equipment and a pair of socks.

Fined for careless driving: William Randall, 204 Superior, $35; Eric Longlands, 4051 Granville, $40.

Popular Fisherman Dies Here at 69

A "man who made the day feel brighter" died Monday in Victoria at 69.

Norman E. Alexander of 1112 Balmoral was well-known to Victoria fish and game men.

One of the original members of the Saanich Inlet Anglers' Club, Mr. Alexander was also a life member of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association.

Fishing and hunting were his major pastimes. He was a member of the Victoria Racing Pigeon Club and was also interested in dogs.

Mr. Alexander was born in Victoria. He was a member of a family that had emigrated to Vancouver Island from the United States in 1858.

As a youth he played first base for the Federal baseball team.

Alexander

He is survived by his wife Verna, at home; a daughter, Mrs. Ernest Lewis, Seattle; two sons, Ernest of Campbell River and Norman of Coquitlam; six grandchildren; two great-grandchildren, and two brothers, Chester and Barton Alexander of Victoria.

Funeral services will be held in Sands Funeral Chapel at 3 p.m. Thursday, with burial in Shady Creek churchyard.

Municipal Employees Bolster Blood Bank

Municipal employees of Saanich and Oak Bay Tuesday contributed 106 pints to the Red Cross blood donor clinic, bringing to 311 the total contribution during the clinic's two-day stay in the Victoria area.

A meeting place for young people will open in Sidney early in October, says Teen Town mayor Ken Campbell.

Teen town members are decorating a basement room beneath Sidney's police station, which the municipal council has offered them.

"I don't think we shall have to get a dispenser," Mr. Campbell said, Tuesday. "Having the police so handy should make it possible for us to look after ourselves."

PROGRAMS

The new centre will provide a place for young people to sit and talk or play records. Some programs will be arranged — probably folk singers and film shows, and it is expected that there will be a "hot seat" for community officials including police and church ministers.

Sidney council decided Monday to get an estimate of costs for improving the basement room with flooring and rewiring.

Falling Into Disuse

Coast Indian Tongue Conference Subject

The languages of the Indians of the West Coast may be falling into disuse, but at least one group is doing its best to record and analyse what remains.

The Third International Saliish Conference, sponsored this year by the University of Victoria's Linguistics Department, Monday discussed differences and peculiarities of the native languages.

About 30 linguists and anthropologists from various North American points, Holland, and Hawaii, compared notes on their research.

Mrs. Barbara Ekstr, a UVic lecturer and one of the sponsoring members of the conference, said that many of them do field work on the coast during the summers although they work elsewhere.

Mrs. Ekstr has been engaged for several years in work in Indian dialects towards her Doctor of Philosophy degree.

"In spite of the name, we're discussing not only Saliish but Nootka, Kwakwaka, and other languages," she said.

Forest Fire Tragedy

No Blame Attached In Bomber Crash

SHAWNIGAN LAKE. — A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death, with no blame attached to anyone, following an inquest Tuesday night into the death of two Victoria pilots.

The jury stated that Thomas Chapman Swanson, 33, of 6778 Vaynness, and co-pilot Thomas Henry Worley, 47, of 4190 Springridge Crescent died as a result of a crash of an Canso water bomber Aug. 8 and the resulting fire. The plane was helping to fight a forest fire about eight miles west of Shawnigan Lake.

John Anderson Cline, of Abbotsford pilot of a second Canso water bomber in the area of the crash, said the other plane was operated normally as far as he and his co-pilot could determine.

Mr. Cline's aircraft left the area before the crash.

David Keith Johnston of Aldergrove who was piloting a bird-dog aircraft, told about the Canso bomber's last drop.

He said: "It looked like a normal drop, except I saw a cloud of dust or ash come up and some wood flew. I had never seen anything like that before but since the drop was in a different area, I didn't think there was anything abnormal at the time."

VERY CAREFUL

Mr. Johnston said he banked his plane away from the Canso bomber after it made its drop and he did not see it crash.

He added that the two men had made good drops in the past and they were very careful.

Cedric Roy Sworder of Shawnigan Lake logging manager for a B.C. Forest Products firm operating in the area, said he saw the bomber's last drop from his position on the ground. "I saw it coming in ... it came in at what I considered an alarmingly low level," he said.

About half way through the drop there was an explosion, he said. The plane continued to fly over the road about 30 feet above the ground.

"It was obvious part of the left wing was missing," said Mr. Sworder.

FLAME-BURST
Police said that subsequent investigation showed the left wing of the water bomber had struck a small tree before it crashed into the forest.

The bomber promptly burst into flames and a series of secondary explosions blew parts of the plane over a radius of more than 50 feet.

An autopsy report stated that the pathologist was unable to identify the few remains of the bodies.

Diploma Courses Offered Again

An expanded offering of diploma credit and general interest courses was issued Tuesday by the University of Victoria.

Dr. Kenneth Hare, newly-installed president of the University of British Columbia, will be one of many guest lecturers this winter.

Courses for teachers and training for businessmen, bankers, realtors and accountants form a major part of the diploma credit offerings.

A 12-part lecture series titled Toward Human Unity will be delivered by Canon Hilary Butler of Christ Church Cathedral. He will survey the recent World Council of Churches conference and the work of the Second Vatican Council.

James K. Nesbitt, a frequent contributor to the Colonist's Islander Magazine, will repeat his lecture series on Victoria and B.C. history.

The annual University Extension Series will begin Sept. 30 with Dr. Hare discussing The University Today.

Money Given For Road

Premier Bennett announced Tuesday the government will spend $1,700,000 on improvements to the Lake Cowichan Road—a project that Opposition Leader Strachan has been urging in the legislature since 1956.

Mr. Strachan, in a telephone interview from his home at Cedar, recalled that the premier had assured the House last session the project would go ahead in 1968. He added: "Naturally, I'm very pleased."

The estimated $1,700,000 cost of the project includes grading, ditching and other new construction on 12.9 miles of the route which has already been cleared.

OTHER CONTRACTS

Mr. Bennett also announced that treasury board has approved the calling of tenders for the following contracts:

A $1,180,000 contract—shareable between municipal, provincial and federal governments for curb, gutter and storm drainage work on 152R Arterial Highway, River Road, for Kitkus Creek dyking, and Kitkus Creek pump station, Port Alberni.

The work is necessitated by flooding in the area.

The construction of a twin structure alongside the George S. Pearson bridge on the Trans-Canada Highway in Nanaimo at an estimated cost of $650,000.

TRUCK LANES

Other contracts include $74,000 for blacktopping truck lanes on the Hope Princeton highway; $200,000 for new bridge approaches to East Kamloops; blacktopping on the Salmon Arm to Grindrod costing an estimated $115,000; three new bridges on Highway 16 between Terrace and Hazelton costing $185,000.

Friends Make Sure Paris Knows He's Home

MONTREAL (CP) — Gaetan Paris sat down to a chicken dinner cooked by his wife Claire in the couple's suburban Laval home Tuesday night.

The meal was continually interrupted by telephone calls from well-wishers.

Paris, Canada's only surviving heart transplant patient, was released Tuesday at 2:15 p.m. from the Montreal Heart Institute, where a surgical team replaced his diseased heart with a healthy one June 28. The slight, 49-year-old electrical designer waved from his hospital window as reporters entered the building to join nurses gathered in the hospital waiting room.

He emerged moments later, dressed in a dark blue suit and accompanied by Mrs. Paris and chief surgeon Dr. Pierre Grondin, who guided them to seats in a corner of the waiting room. Suddenly besieged by about 50 reporters and photographers, the couple appeared hesitant and nervous, but broke into smiles when a photographer suddenly grabbed a spectator's baby and plopped her on Paris's knee.

Asked what he wanted to do now that he was out of the hospital, Paris answered immediately: "Go fishing."

Dr. Grondin, wearing his green surgical cap, added swiftly: "Boating and fishing are very fine, and I'm sure there are plenty of people here at the institute who would like to go with him, but after all Mr. Paris is a convalescent, and he will have to take it easy for about two months."

Paris, who received the heart of 23-year-old Yvon Bastien, a motorcycle accident victim, would live a quiet but normal life at home, free from the strict regimen of sanitary precautions which dictated most of his 60 days in hospital.

Mrs. Paris took the wheel of the family car to lead a 15-car cavalcade to their home.

They were accompanied by motorcycle policemen from four municipal forces—Montreal, St.

Michel, Montreal North and Laval—who joined the cavalcade at each municipal boundary.

They were met by a crowd of neighbors, mostly children, who gathered on the little front lawn of the Paris bungalow.

Wharf Street Ghost Haunts Centre Scheme

By DESMOND BILL

A proposal that never existed is haunting discussion of the scheme to build a convention centre in Victoria.

The ghost is the idea of a convention centre along Wharf Street that would spark redevelopment of the waterfront area.

Such a project was endorsed by a special committee of city council that studied the convention centre problem.

And the idea of locating a centre in the Wharf Street area, or adjacent to it, was also enthusiastically approved by city council as little as two months ago.

But, Mayor Hugh Stephen said Tuesday, no group has yet made any specific proposal to the city about a convention centre in that area.

In fact, he said, the city has been faced with only two proposals for a convention centre: one opposite City Hall, which it rejected, and the one adjacent to the Empress Hotel, which it has, in principle, approved.

Mayor Stephen said council long ago decided on the desirability of a convention centre in the city, and he had no doubt that the proposal to build one beside the Empress Hotel was the best deal offered taxpayers.

The closest thing to a proposal for a convention centre on Wharf Street was made by a group of landowners in that area early this month.

That suggestion envisaged construction of a 34-story building in the district bounded by Government and Wharf and Broughton and Courtney.

But its proponents failed to say what the price tag for the city would be, or indeed to show that they had the financial capability to get the scheme going.

City Reaction Awaited

One of the groups behind the presentation, real estate man P. D. P. Holmes, said he and his associates were waiting for city reaction to their idea before going into the specifics of financing.

He said Tuesday: "We made our presentation with the idea that it would tie in with a city urban renewal scheme for the area. But we wouldn't go ahead without encouragement from the city, and so far we have had no reaction that I know about."

In fact, the only two specific proposals for a convention centre, complete with price tags, are those made by Oxford Leasholds Ltd., an Edmonton holding company, and by the CPR, owner of the Empress Hotel.

The Oxford proposal envisaged the building by that company of a convention centre and hotel on Douglas Street, opposite City Hall.

Oxford proposed that the city then lease part of the convention facilities and guarantee against any operating deficit. Even allowing for tax revenue from the hotel that Oxford said it would build, city officials estimated that the city would be saddled with a net expense of a least $300,000 a year for the centre. It rejected that idea.

The CPR proposal which council has approved, at least in principle, is that the Empress Hotel would donate the land to the city and the city would then build the centre, at a net cost of about $2,000,000.

Might Be Reduced

City officials reckon that, when all the details of the deal are worked out, the cost to the city of this proposal would be only about $200,000 a year.

And there are fairly well-confirmed rumors that even this cost might be reduced, depending on behind-the-scenes moves that city officials are now engaged in. They are hoping to raise some of the building cost at no expense to city taxpayers.

Just where such funds might come from, and under what conditions, is a close-kept secret right now. Officials are concerned that premature disclosure of the sources might jeopardize negotiations.

But even if the city had to raise all the cost of construction by itself, the price would be at least one-third less than the Oxford proposal.

City council members are unanimously in favor of the proposal to build the centre on the Empress grounds, but privately some of them think that its presentation to the public was bungled.

The Empress proposal was unveiled suddenly and ratified within a matter of hours by council. No attempt was made to explain why the long-mooted idea of a centre on Wharf Street was suddenly abandoned.

One alderman commented, "It's a good deal for Victoria. But it was put over so quickly that I'm not surprised some people are wondering why there is such a rush."

Busy Times In Store For Floor

Concrete floor is smoothed into place after being poured Tuesday in new $475,832 George Pearkes Arena being built near Tillicum and Burnside. Rink will be finished in time for coming hockey season, much to delight of more than 350 boys between six and 16 registered with Saanich Minor Hockey Association. Saanich taxpayers approved expenditure for 232-foot long and 142-foot wide building as part of referendum for $1,250,000 worth of new indoor recreational facilities.—(Jim Ryan)

City Sewage Outfall

Underwater Studies To Resume in Fall

City Engineer James Garnett said Tuesday that underwater studies would be resumed this fall off Clover Point.

He added that it would probably be the spring of 1969 before the provincial Pollution Control Board made a definite decision on Victoria's plan to extend the outfall from its present 90 feet to 1,200 or more and to sink it 150 feet below the surface.

City Manager Dennis Young said the decision to delay in the studies was made by the Pollution Control Board and the claim paid to the firm making the studies, Triton Engineering, of Vancouver.

THREE MORE PLANNED

Mr. Garnett said the city requested the delay in the studies so that information now in the hands of the city could be studied and further data be obtained by placing three more measuring instruments at various depths.

City Manager Dennis Young said the decision to delay a ruling on the outfalls was mutually agreed to by the Pollution Control Board and the city.

LITTLE MORE TIME

"When it became reasonably certain that the public hearing would be held before a decision would be given on our application, we asked for a little more time to compile certain tidal data, which such a hearing would require," Mr. Young said.

"Actually there need be no delay in the city's plans," he added.

Saanich Vote Only Way

Sewers Merger 'Up to People'

By DON GAIN

Saanich council and a portion of the electorate were sharply criticized Tuesday night at the second of two meetings called to discuss the Sept. 28 sewer enterprise vote.

"Council is shunning its responsibility," said W. C. Hutchings, 4117 Glenford, "by going to the people on this vote when they have the authority to push this thing through with a bylaw."

D. W. Latimer, 1741 Ash Road, rapped the spathy of some property owners for not even turning out to the meeting.

BYLAW WANTED

Mr. Hutchings said council was elected to represent the voters. "Why then pay half a million or whatever the vote will cost?" he asked, and reiterated that council should set up the sewer enterprise with a bylaw.

Mayor Hugh Curtis explained that such a bylaw would have to have unanimous approval by council before the provincial government could make it law.

PUBLIC PROMISE

Ald. Leslie Passmore explained that he made a promise "from a public platform that it would go to the public."

"I feel it's up to you, the electorate, to pass it," the alderman said.

It was later repeated that Mr. Passmore was the one on council who would not vote for the passage of the bylaw without taking it to the people.

"I made a promise and I'm going to stick to it," he said.

WHAT OF COST?

"How much is your promise going to cost us?" someone asked.

Mr. Latimer said he understood 520 property owners, who had previously complained about open ditches, were invited to attend the two meetings.

"Thirty-eight came last week," he said, "and a few more tonight (about 50). If out of 520 who complained you can only get about 100 out, aren't we taking a terrific chance of losing that vote Sept. 28? I'm scared when I see the apathy of 520 citizens who have previously complained."

MAJORITY RULE

Ernest Campbell, 3755 Tillicum, said that if an epidemic of typhoid or smallpox hit Saanich, "you wouldn't be asking for a plebiscite. You'd take it right down and vaccinate us. Why doesn't the majority rule? Why spend money for a plebiscite?"

"We are governed by an act," Mayor Curtis explained. "If you want to have that changed, you'll have to take your complaints to the province."

Mrs. John Clay, 532 Peto Place, asked where the sewage would go if the enterprise passed.

SEWAGE DUMPING

"Will it go into the ocean?" she asked. "I know Mr. Curtis has begged Health Minister Lofmark to say what is required in the way of dumping sewage."

"Last year we had the highest hepatitis rate in Canada," she said. "A boy playing soccer at Glenford School fell into an open ditch and 10 days later found out he had it... Viruses live in cold water longer than in warm water and the water around Victoria is very cold."

COLLECTION FIRST

"What is the responsibility here?" the mayor asked. "Saanich must have its collection system regardless of what happens to it, whether it's disposed of as raw, primary or secondary sewage."

Mrs. Clay said that, unless it was made clear that the possibility of treatment plants is not ruled out, he vote would fail.

Mrs. Marnie MacInew, 4000 Century, said she would fight for the sewer enterprise.

"People talk of raw sewage in ditches. I went down in my basement and found my laundry tubs filled with raw sewage. That's worse than having it outside in a ditch. I'll carry banners. I'll do anything to fight for the enterprise."

Mayor Curtis said he was convinced that sewage treatment would be required by provincial authorities. He said he had read the sanitary sewerage study carefully many times but could see nothing to indicate it was necessary.

"But I feel that the provincial government is moving to the point where they will say it is required."

Petition Presses North Hospital

By JOHN MATTERS

A delegation from the Central and North Saanich districts Friday afternoon will present Health Minister Ralph Lofmark with a brief and 4,000-name petition seeking a hospital in their own area.

The representatives of two chambers of commerce—Central Saanich and Sidney and North Saanich group — plus envoys from the three municipalities will ask Mr. Lofmark's department to follow the recommendations of the Agnew, Peckham report.

The Toronto hospital consultants suggested a hospital be built on the northern end of the peninsula to replace Resthaven, a 56-bed centre now operated by the Seventh Day Adventist Church at Sidney.

PLAN CONDEMNED

The committee took shape after the Sidney and North Saanich chamber in June condemned a proposal to build a 650-bed hospital in Saanich.

Such a hospital, according to the properties committee of the regional hospital board, would replace both Resthaven and St. Joseph's and would be operated by the St. Joseph's management team.

However, the recommendation has not been acted on by the regional board since the wave of opinion arose on the northern end of the peninsula.

REFERENCE

Bill Lanark, spokesman for the committee, said Monday night that he was surprised at the response the petition received.

In the meantime, the regional hospital board this afternoon is expected to hear a proposal for a referendum, likely Oct. 12, on the question of extended care facilities.

Extended care will be the first phase of Greater Victoria's hospital construction program. It likely will be followed in the fall of 1969 with a proposal for acute care facilities.

This fall's referendum probably will be for projects worth between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000, which includes money needed for the planning of acute care facilities.

Composer Hired for Tribute

B.C. Has a Riddle

A top Hollywood composer and arranger has been hired by the provincial government to create a special musical tribute to British Columbia.

Nelson Riddle, famed bandleader, composer and arranger will produce the album, entitled Beautiful British Columbia, hopefully for worldwide distribution.

He had lunch with Premier Bennett here Tuesday and conferred with officials of the travel industry department.

Officials said he was seeking inspiration for creation of the province's theme music.

Asked if he was inspired by his contact with the premier, Mr. Riddle told reporters later: "Yes. He's a bright man, a very bright man."

Not content with this source of inspiration alone, however, the composer said he would visit Vancouver and other parts of the province including the Peace River district.

Mr. Riddle is being retained by the new B.C. recording firm, RADA Records of Vancouver, to compose music that is intended to symbolize the province. He will also conduct and record it with his Hollywood orchestra.

The B.C. company will have world distributing rights for the record. However, a spokesman for the firm, Ralph Harding, said it had not yet been decided whether the government will purchase copies of the Nelson Riddle album or assist in its marketing.

Mr. Riddle, whose name will be on the album as composer and conductor, said he doesn't intend to write lyrics but added a reading of B.C. Indian fables might be incorporated, with the music as background, in part of the album.

Deputy travel industry minister Ron Worley, who conferred with Mr. Riddle here, later told reporters an advertisement placed by the province in two Hollywood trade papers, inviting film producers to make movies in B.C., had brought some 30 inquiries.

Mr. Riddle first gained fame as arranger and conductor for Frank Sinatra. In recent years, his chief job has been musical director for the Smothers Brothers television program.

Marina—Fairytale Princess

Queen's Aunt Dies

LONDON (CP) — Princess Marina, one of the world's most elegant women, died at Kensington Palace Tuesday of a brain tumor.

The 61-year-old aunt of the Queen was a fairytale princess who had known royal pomp and poverty.

Five weeks ago she underwent treatment at the National Hospital for Nervous Diseases. Since then she had been resting at Kensington Palace, her home, but Britons did not know she was seriously ill until a statement was issued by her doctors earlier Tuesday.

Princess Marina was a child of the Greek royal family. She had been a prominent figure in British life since 1934, when she married Prince George, Duke of Kent, the Queen's uncle.

In 1954, she and her 17-year-

old daughter, Princess Alexandra, made an extensive tour of central and Eastern Canada, and in Montreal McGill University bestowed an honorary degree on her. She was honorary colonel-in-chief of the Essex and Kent Scottish Regiment, an Ontario Infantry Regiment.

The troubles of the beautiful princess began during the First World War. The Greek royal family was forced into exile and lived in comparative poverty in Switzerland.

There she learned the secrets of elegance. Her family could no longer afford to employ maids, and she learned to do her own sewing and to make inexpensive dresses look stylish.

Princess Marina's marriage to the Duke of Kent was one of the great events of British royal pageantry in the 1930s.

But only eight years later, her husband was killed in an air crash during active service in the Second World War. The widowed duchess was left with three children, Prince Edward, who succeeded to the dukedom, Princess Alexandra and Prince Michael.

During part of the Second World War, she worked as a hospital nurse under the assumed name of Sister Kay.

She reverted to the name of Princess Marina when her son was married to Katherine Worsley in 1961 and the bride became Duchess of Kent.

Flags flew at half staff all over London. The funeral will be held at Windsor Castle Friday, palace sources said. A memorial service will be held at a later date.

Miss PNE Chosen From 26 Tonight

One of these 26 beauties tonight will be chosen as Miss Pacific National Exhibition—queen of big fair in Vancouver and B.C. entrant in 1968 Miss Canada contest. Vancouver Island's five competitors are all in rear row, with Miss Nanaimo Julie Guest at left, Miss Parksville Joan Cassidy two along, Miss Lake Cowichan Sharon Berar beside her, Miss Victoria Pamela Gillan one along and Miss Alberni Valley Patsy Brewster second from right.

Message from Victorians

Prince Congratulated

A message has gone from Eidsvoll Lodge, Sons of Norway Victoria, to the royal palace in Oslo, congratulating Crown Prince Harald and Miss Sonja Haraldsen on their wedding Thursday.

Prince Harald visited Victoria last October during Canada's Centennial celebrations, and Sons of Norway members were presented to him.

Among Victorians who met the prince were lodge president Jack Lynne and Mrs. Lynne, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gilstein, Mr. and Mrs. Eivind Moeskau, and Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmar Linnis.

Heir to the Norwegian throne and son of King Olav V and the late Crown Princess Martha, he was the first prince to be born in Norway for about 600 years.

During the Second World War Prince Harald lived in the United States from 1940 until 1945, escaping with his family via Sweden and Finland at the time of the German invasion.

Prince Harald attended an American school during this period and received the remainder of his education at the Cathedral School of Oslo, matriculating in 1955. The next three years were spent in army training and at the War Academy. From 1960 to 1962 he attended Balliol College, Oxford.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Every Saturday morning for the past month my husband has been getting up at 5:30 a.m. to go fishing — he said. He always comes home the following day at noon—with beautiful fish and a report on what a great time he had.

I was especially pleased because the fish were cleaned and I didn't have the mess in my kitchen.

This morning I was turning his pockets inside out before I put the pants in the washer and I ran into a receipt for $6 worth of yoke from a local market. The fish was purchased last Saturday.

My husband has been telling me he goes fishing with two buddies. Now I wonder if the three of them are up to something or is it just my husband and he is lying about the other two fellows. Should I check with their wives? What does this smell like to you? —AGNES.

Keep It in Family

Dear Ag: It smells fishy. But keep it in the family, please. Calling wives will not improve the aroma.

Give your husband the receipt and tell him it was not necessary for him to buy fish if his luck was bad. He'll love you for letting him off the hook—and there just might be a chance that he is not guilty.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for every adopted kid in the United States. I wish I had seen a letter like this when I was younger.

When I was five years old, I learned I was adopted. After that I always figured I was

Parents Were Wise

My parents were wonderful and they were wise to insist that I do my share of the work in the house. I have an adopted friend who is a mess because her parents bent over backwards to make sure she didn't feel "imposed upon."

Please print this, Ann. It would be a real favor to thousands of kids who need to see it.—WISSED UP AND GLAD OF IT.

Dear Ann Landers: My fiancé has a 13-year-old son who came to live with him last year. His ex-wife has had the boy for seven years and says she can't handle him. The boy has stolen things from school lockers and recently he took a teacher's purse. This boy has plenty of money (too much), which he gets from his grandparents. Why does he steal? What can be done about it?—PUZZLED MARYA.

Dear Marya: Many kids steal because they feel unloved. The objects they steal are substitutes for the love they need and do not get. At this point the boy needs psychiatric care in addition to some time and attention from at least one of his parents.

Low Pay, Big Opportunity

Dancer Looks Forward To Lean, Happy Season

By SUE MAYSE

Margo Wade thinks that when she reaches her destination in Germany she may be able to survive financially if she doesn't smoke or drink.

But even while contemplating the possibility of starvation, the 19-year-old Victoria dancer is remarkably cheerful. She's on her way to her first job with a professional ballet company in Luneburg, Germany.

Her pay during her season of eight months will be just $50 to about $130, which is barely enough to eat on, but an average wage for a young ballerina in Europe.

for dancers to get out and look at other styles.

"I think it's important for dancers, especially in small towns such as Victoria, to get around and see what other people are doing. Otherwise, they'll never be able to judge their own dancing as someone could who had studied in London, for instance," she said.

But it's not as necessary, she said, for someone wanting really good instruction in ballet to leave Canada as it was a few years ago.

"Canada's standards are getting so high that there's now really good training available. At the moment we're still being trained by Europeans, especially Russians," she said.

"But at least the Europeans are coming to Canada, so that a dancer doesn't have to leave the country to be well trained."

After her season in Germany she would like to dance with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

"It has the reputation of being a happy company, and it has a good standard as well. The National Ballet is good, but people say it's an unhappy company, and since I'm in it because I enjoy dancing, I'd rather be in a happy place."

Margo, who completed her high school at Norfolk House in Victoria, said she relaxes by cooking.

She started cooking in London where she shared a flat with several other girls, and found she had a natural bent for it.

"I once cooked a meal for 16 people on six dollars. It was curried chicken with three salads and rice and strawberry pie."

Apart from cooking, her entertainment in London consisted of "just getting out and having a good time with friends" and it looks as though her pay cheque may force her to have fun cheaply in Luneburg, too. But she's not complaining.

Margo

Preserves Have That Tang

Apartment living and deep freezers have done away with a lot of home baking. We all are aware of this and the majority of us appreciate it.

However I think we miss a lot of fun and satisfaction at this time of year if we don't but up some homemade preserves from all the fruits and vegetables so plentiful in the stores right now. At least a few that you cannot buy.

BLUEBERRY GINGER SAUCE

1 pint fresh blueberries.
2 cups ginger ale.
1/4 cup sugar.

2 tablespoons cornstarch.
1 tablespoon butter.

Mix sugar and cornstarch. Add the blueberries and gradually stir in the ginger ale.

Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens. Stir in butter and simmer for 5 more minutes. Serve warm or cold over pancakes, waffles or ice cream.

BLUEBERRY JELLY

2 quarts fresh blueberries.
1 cup water.
6 1/2 cups sugar.

1/4 bottle liquid pectin.

Put blueberries and water in saucepan and boil until fruit is soft. Strain through cheesecloth. Add sugar to juice, bring to a boil and stir in pectin. Cook at a rolling boil for 1 minute. Remove from heat and skim off foam.

Pour into sterilized glasses and seal with hot paraffin.

BLUEBERRY CONSERVE

1 quart fresh blueberries.
1/4 cup light raisins.
1 lemon, sliced very thin.
1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts.

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.
sugar, cup for cup.

Put blueberries and water into pan, cover and cook over low heat until tender. Measure fruit and for every cup add add 1 cup sugar. Add other ingredients. Cook while stirring until mixture is thick. Pour into sterilized glasses. Vegetable marrows are something you either like very much or don't at all. However, if you use it as a vegetable try this marrow relish. Delicious with both ham and pork. And makes a good sandwich relish. The curry has that different flavor.

RELISH

4 1/2 pounds vegetable marrow.

1 tablespoon salt.

1 pound green tomatoes.

1 1/2 cup chopped onions.

1 teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves and ginger.

1 tablespoon curry powder.
3 tablespoons cornstarch.
5 cups vinegar.

Cube marrow and sprinkle with salt. Add chopped green tomatoes and let stand for 24 hours. Drain. Add onions.

Combine spices, sugar and cornstarch and blend together with a little vinegar. Add this mixture to remaining vinegar and cook for 10 minutes.

Add the vegetables and cook from 40 to 45 minutes.

Have you any grapes growing in your yard? Or perhaps in the neighbors'? Most of the grapes grown around here are the Concord and these are excellent for grape catsup. This different tasting catsup is a wonderful accompaniment to cold cuts.

GRAPE CATSUP

Grapes, enough to make 10 pounds of pulp after skins and seeds are discarded.

5 pounds sugar.

2 quarts vinegar.

1 grated nutmeg.

1 tablespoon cinnamon.

1 tablespoon allspice.

2 tablespoons ground cloves.

Remove stems from grapes, wash and drain. Add enough cold water to barely cover.

Bring to boil and simmer until fruit is soft. Press through sieve, discarding seeds and skins.

Put 10 pounds of grape pulp in preserving pan and add sugar, vinegar and spices.

CARGO LINERS AROUND THE WORLD

Yes, cargo liners are truly "your home afloat." You will really prefer the friendly, informal, easy-going atmosphere, the personal service of the stewards in the tastefully furnished passenger lounge. Four double or single cabin will be spacious and comfortable.

The salt air will sharpen your appetite for the fine cuisine, as you dine with the Captain and ship's officers.

As specialists in this mode of travel, we can offer bookings from Montreal to England and Europe, or direct from Vancouver via the Panama. Bookings also from Pacific Coast ports to Hawaii, Australia, Caribbean and South America. We are agents for Manchester Liners, Saseeney Lines, Furness Line and most of the other cargo liners.

Fares are surprisingly low! For example: Montreal to England from Victoria only $235.00 one way.

Staples Stay Steady

OTTAWA (CP) — No price reduction in meats is expected in September, the economic branch of the Canadian agriculture department said in a food review Tuesday. The outlook:

Beef: With supplies steady and demand strong, prices will continue firm.

Pork: Supplies will be below levels a year ago and prices moderately higher.

Eggs: Markets firm to slightly stronger because of seasonally-lower production.

Turkey: Heavy prices will be stronger as supplies are slightly below requirements. Broiler prices firm to stronger.

Chicken: Broiler prices will be steady and supplies plentiful.

Potatoes: Favorable yield expectations point to plentiful supplies and reduced prices in all areas.

Apples: Later-season varieties of higher quality will attract heavier demand and strengthen prices.

Onions and carrots: Domestic supplies will return to the market at prices above last year.

Mallek's

For over 20,075 wonderful days (that's over 55 years) Mallek's has been serving the women of Victoria!

It's quite a time since Alice and the late Harry Mallek started in business in a small way in 1913, but after a lifetime of service it now seems time to graciously retire from business.

Your patronage has been greatly appreciated and our sincere thanks go out to you for your consideration.

We will be closing our doors on the Labour Day weekend but have arranged for accounts to be paid at Eddy's Limited. You will be pleased to know that many of the lines previously carried by us will now be available at Eddy's in separate departments under the Mallek label.

We wish to quietly close with a minimum of fanfare just as we started in business many years ago, therefore there will be no sales promotion.

Another Victoria landmark may disappear but the memory of a pleasant relationship will remain.

Sincerely,

The Mallek Family

Watering Again Wide Open

Lawn and garden watering restrictions imposed in Greater Victoria last month were lifted Tuesday by civic and municipal officials.

They acted due to the very heavy rainfall of 1.82 inches so far this month. Normal total to Aug. 27, is .51 inches and the record of 3.35 inches for August was set in 1917.

Lake Swim

Record Broken At Thetis

Two mid-teens beat all entrants Sunday in the Thetis Lake Swim and one beat a previous record set by a 22-year-old man.

Jim Gollmer, 15, of 1531 Edgeware Road, set a new record for the 2½-mile swim of 43 minutes, .03 second. This broke the record set last year by Monty Holding, of 44 minutes, .04 second.

Louise Cosby, 14, of 1239 Burnsde, was the first of two girls entered. Her time was 57 minutes, .7 second.

STRANGLEHOLD CUT

Mr. Gollmer also broke the stranglehold Mr. Holding had on the Geoff Edgell Perpetual Trophy. Mr. Holding won the trophy three years in succession and swim organizers said this could have accounted for fewer contestants entering than expected. Only 10 swam in the race.

In spite of rain, 200 people lined the Thetis Lake shores to watch. Last to complete the race, at two hours and 10 minutes, was Yvan de Montigny, 27.

Unlimited Economy Outlined

Trade and Commerce Minister Waldo Shillings says prospects for further advances in most areas of the B.C. economy appear virtually unlimited.

He made the statement in the first chapter, entitled A Profile of Economic Growth, in the 1969 version of British Columbia Facts and Statistics, released Tuesday.

The 75-page brochure covers information already published by various government sources dealing with land, climate, plant and animal life, history, population, labor force, government, education and social services as well as all major aspects of the economy.

Debentures Approved By Cabinet

Up to $30,000,000 in new borrowing by two provincial crown corporations was authorized by the B.C. cabinet Tuesday.

Cabinet orders said B.C. Hydro and Power Authority can issue 20-year debentures at an interest rate not exceeding 6½ per cent for amounts up to a total of $25,000,000.

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway was given authority to borrow up to $5,000,000 in short term notes at an interest rate not exceeding 6½ per cent.

Layman Heads United Church

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Robert Baird McClure, 68-year-old medical missionary on retirement leave from India, Tuesday night was elected to a two-year term as moderator of the United Church of Canada—the first layman to hold that office.

His election to the church's top executive post came on the fourth ballot.

SENIOR BODY

The new moderator will preside over further sessions here of the United Church general council, the church's senior legislative body.

Dr. McClure was chosen over Rev. M. Bruce McLeod, minister of Westside United Church, Hamilton, Ont. Three other candidates were eliminated in earlier ballots.

DROPPED AFTER FIRST

They were: Rev. J. A. Davidson, minister of Sydenham Street United, dropped after the first ballot; Rev. Randolph C. Chalmers, professor of systematic theology at Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax, eliminated on the second ballot; and Rev. W. S. Taylor, principal of Union Theological College at University of British Columbia, dropped after the third ballot.

In an address to the more than 400 commissioners before the election of its successor, Dr. Lockhart called for a reassessment of the moderator's role.

SAYS METHOD OUTMODED

He said the present method of electing a moderator and the manner in which he functions are outmoded and "are not designed to meet the needs of the church in this generation."

The moderator now is elected for a two-year term at the biennial meeting of general council and although he is titular head of the church he still retains his pastorate or secular job.

Dr. Lockhart suggested council consider electing a moderator-designate by mail ballot one year after council sits formally. He could then assume office a year later when the council again convened.

COWICHAN FOREST MUSEUM—"The biggest little train ride in North America." That is our firm claim, for where else can you board a real steam train on a narrow gauge track and travel through woods and over water past a unique display of old logging equipment once used to harvest the resources of our great forests? On foot you can wander along tree-lined paths where notices describe the mysteries of woodland growth. There is enjoyment here for young and old alike. Set on beautifully timbered lakeside grounds, this museum offers marvellous material for your picture album. Located on Highway No. 1, one mile north of Duncan. Open 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

ROYAL LONDON WAX MUSEUM—in the Crystal Garden Swimming Pool building directly across from the rear of the Empress Hotel, a must in Victoria. See over 100 Josephine Tussaud wax figures, direct from London, England. Life size, "They Seem Alive!" Also 37 scenes beautifully and artistically displayed, featuring: Kings, Queens, Presidents, Prime Ministers and many other outstanding world figures. The enchanted fairytale presents a new scene of Snow White and the Dwarfs Grumpy and Sneezy. Also many thrilling and exciting figures can be seen in the chamber of horrors. Open daily 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., including Sundays. 388-4461.

MARITIME MUSEUM—BASTION SQUARE—The finest on the West Coast. Mum, dad and the kids will all thrill to the magnificent treasures of the sea. Mum—have you seen embroidery done by sailors? Dad—fond of sailing? Take a look at Captain Voss' dugout canoe. He sailed it from here to England nearly 70 years ago. And kids—there are ship models galore, a radar set, bells to ring, old weapons. A host of exciting links with the past. Daily 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. And Dad—parking lot tickets will be validated.

FISHING FOR EVERYONE—Oak Bay Marina. 386-3445. Rental boats, modern fleet, new motors, rental rods. Salmon fishing, Oak Bay Guide Service, de luxe fleet of charter boats, expert guides, free coffee, bait and tackle. Group sports fishing Mv. Lakewood every day, 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.—3½-hour trip. Fishing, $4.35; Sightseeing, $2.85.

Beekeeper's Fancy Lethal

MORRISBURG, Ont. — Ed Plantz, a department of high-mound plants, 57, has died after ways employee, was allergic to being stung on the larynx by a bee stings and died of shock. Doctors said he had been stung before, always with adverse reaction, but continued to keep a number of hives on his farm.

LOS ANGELES — Actor Brad Dillman, Hollywood's first refugee from the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, returned home to relate how the 78-member company of the film Bridge at Remagen voted to leave after the trouble began. Said Dillman: "I could just see it, all of us running around in American army uniforms and shooting rifles. Just what the world needed. I voted no by waving my wallet in the air and showing pictures of my kids."

BROMLEY, England — Brian Campion was stumped on a birthday gift for his wife until he remembered she once expressed a whim to drive a bulldozer. He took her to a building site where a friendly bulldozer driver had agreed to instruct her, and said: "Happy 34th, Love, It's all yours for 15 minutes."

WASHINGTON — For the first time, former president Dwight Eisenhower's doctors voiced "cautious optimism" that he might survive his latest series of heart ailments. But his condition remained critical.

CAPE TOWN — Dr. Philip Blalberg, world's longest-surviving heart patient, has made excellent progress since suffering a liver complication June 10. Groote Schuur Hospital announced. Blalberg has been moved from the sterile suite in the hospital to a special ward.

KELOWNA — Dr. Arthur Drulitt, 54, of Rutland, was killed while mowing his lawn. He was using a small tractor when it toppled over on an embankment and crushed him.

PENDER HARBOUR — Skookum Ceil, a four-ton killer whale who broke out of his pen Monday, was spotted nearby. The sighting renewed hopes of Vancouver public aquarium officials that the missing mammal can be lured back into captivity.

OTTAWA — Lt.-Gen. W. R. MacBrien, 55, Canadian Deputy commander of North American Air Defence Command, will retire early next year. His post as top Canadian at NORAD will be taken by Lt.-Gen. F. R. Sharp, 52.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Smallwood announced discovery by Hooker Chemical of a major salt deposit on the west coast of Newfoundland, containing an undetermined amount of potash.

Garden Notes

Things to Do

By M. V. Chesnut

While it is too early yet to make a start on the major garden jobs of fall—tree planting, bulb planting and the like—there are still all kinds of little jobs that need doing.

The taking and rooting of slips, for instance, the regulating of the growths on fruit trees, sowing a few seeds, battling weeds and pests, and making a start on the lifting and storing of the first mature crops.

About the first fruits from our gardens are the herbs and these are cut and bunched before they get too old and start losing their essential oils. All except parsley should be cut on a dry day, made up into small bunches, then hung up in a cool, airy place to dry slowly.

The bunches must be small, for large ones tend to sweat and mildew may set in. With parsley, I think it is better to spread it out on a cookie sheet and dry it in a slow oven, for in this way it retains its attractive green color.

I have already covered the techniques of taking slips from shrubs. I should remind you, though, that slips from quite a few of our common bedding plants can make most attractive houseplants for winter flowering indoors.

I had never thought of the dwarf scalet salvia as a houseplant until my wife took a slip last September, more through curiosity than anything else. The thing bloomed in a sunny window almost all winter, and several of our visitors begged slips from it, under the impression that it was a rare and expensive tropical houseplant.

If you have any really good dwarf double petunias, these too can make good houseplants. Others that can be grown in this way are hydrangeas, verbenas, heliotropes, penstemon and marguerites.

Speaking of houseplants, Colchicum bulbs are available now, and you'll find that children will get a great kick out of one of these bulbs grown in a saucer of water indoors.

You can expect about six large blooms per bulb—enough to make quite an effective display, and with absolutely no care or trouble at all. As with all bulbs grown in water, regard them as expendable and give them the old heave-ho after the flowers fade.

Quite a few of my readers have been disappointed in their attempts to grow figs, and I think the chief reason for the poor cropping is because they do not thin out the growths drastically enough.

A fig tree is a rampant grower, which is why so many home gardeners confine their roots in a concrete "well," in much the same way as we grow our mint in a bottomless tin bucket sunk in the ground.

Do not be misled into thinking that the masses of shoots carrying an apparently promising crop of young figs should be spared, for any young figs larger than a pea will winter-kill.

I wouldn't worry too much if the branches weep tears of sap when the shoots are thinned out; as I say, the chief trouble with fig trees is an excess of vigor, and the loss of a little sap may be all to the good.

Keep an eye open for red spider mite, not only on figs but on ALL plants growing against a hot, dry, sunny wall. These are tiny sap-sucking insects, almost too small to see with the unaided eye, but you can suspect their presence when leaves show their color, look dry, and start falling.

An infestation can be controlled by persistent spraying with keltthane or malathion, but a better way is to keep them from ever getting a foothold on your tree or vine by washing down both the leaves and the wall with a very forceful jet of water every time you have the hose out.

ARTHUR HOPPE Behind-the-Scenes

Confusion Saved the World

It can now be told how a Third World War was narrowly averted on the night the Russians invaded Czechoslovakia.

As is well known, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk abruptly left a meeting of the Democratic platform committee, where he had been defending U.S. Vietnam policy, to attend an emergency session of the National Security Council.

What has not been revealed is the transcript of that unrecorded session:

The President: Come on in, Dean. I was just saying that this here is a case of aggression, pure and simple.

Rusk: Just what I've been saying myself, sir. And I say firmly we must honor our sacred commitment to freedom by employing our full military might to teach these Communists that aggression never pays.

The President: In Czechoslovakia?

Rusk: Oh, no, sir. In Vietnam. But let me add that the whole Free World supports the popular government of this brave little nation in its struggle.

The President: We finally got a popular government in Vietnam? That's mighty fine news.

Rusk: Czechoslovakia, sir. But on that score, let's not forget the lesson of Munich. If we let the Communists gobble up one small nation, the Domino Theory tells us which one will be next.

The President: Yugoslavia?

Rusk: Thailand. This time, let's stand up to Hitler.

General Wheeler: You mean Mao Tse-tung. But speaking for the Joint Chiefs, Mr. President, we have long felt it would be a disaster to get bogged down in a land war.

The President: In Asia?

General Wheeler: In Europe. And remember your promise, sir, that you'll "never send American boys to fight a war that Czechoslovakian boys should fight themselves."

The President: I think I said Asian boys. But I did pledge to "seek no wider war." And Czechoslovakia is sure wider. (Hopefully) Maybe the Russians will fail in this foul act of blatant intervention.

Rusk: Don't count on it, sir. Look at history. The last time troops were sent in to topple an unfriendly government, they did it in no time.

The President: You mean Hungary?

Rusk: No, I think the last time was the Dominican Republic.

The President: No, I think the last time was the Dominican Republic.

The President: (angrily) Are you denying my right to call up troops to put down political troublemakers?

Rusk: In Czechoslovakia, sir? No, that's the Russians. Oh, you mean Vietnam.

The President: Anywhere, dang it. (More calmly) Of course, let's remember we've already got half a million boys committed. So I say let's take a firm moral stand, condemn the aggression and dump the whole mess in the UN's lap.

Rusk: Vietnam, sir?

The President: Czechoslovakia, damn it. Stop asking fool questions. The time's come to be realistic.

Rusk: About Vietnam... Excuse me, sir. I almost asked another fool question.

Oh, about the Third World War. That almost occurred when General Wheeler misread his understanding-conferred notes and thought he'd been ordered to "call up troops" to "put down political troublemakers."

He couldn't recall whether the President wanted them shipped to Czechoslovakia or Vietnam. And he didn't want to ask a fool question. But fortunately, after much thought, he sent them to Chicago instead.

Advice Pays Off

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—When Warren Beatty discovered how much Julie Christie was being paid for her starring role in In Search of Gregory, he said: "Don't do it unless they pay you another $100,000!" They did.

Peter O'Toole is back as Wellington in Paramount's Waterloo. It was a question of finding the time. Peter goes from picture to picture as David Niven goes and Sophia Loren used to, before the stork tapped her.

All of Europe is atwitter at the prospect of seeing the great Mae West who will be going there in the fall to star for Fellini in his Satyricon film with Michael Pollard, Groucho Marx, Danny Kaye, Terence Stamp and possibly one or all of the Beatles. What a mixture!

After his Che Guevara in Mexico, Omar Sharif returns to Italy in February for another movie. But he would really prefer to be playing bridge.

The Italian mags are trying to make romance between Faye Dunaway and Marcello Mastroianni who are finishing up in The Lovers. But Marcello is a strong family man. I remember writing something like this shortly before the Jean Paul Belmondo decided to divorce.

American-International is paying David Niven to star in Implosion, which deals with the decrease of the birth of baby girls in Great Britain. Even now you see three men to one girl on the London streets. It's a paradise for females!

I heard a rumor that a major studio balked recently at paying Elizabeth Taylor her usual $1,000,000 stipend against 10 per cent of the gross. Elizabeth's last four films were not exactly sensational and all good things ultimately have to end. Of course one hit movie could change the outlook but it had better come soon.

Christina Keeler is tucked away in the same mews in Belgravia where Raquel Welch lived secretly with her two children when she was denying she was married to Pat Curtis. Christine, who toppled the MacMillan government, is writing her memoirs and perhaps now we will really learn what went on during the Stephen Ward-Proflume scandal—and how long ago that seems!

In Two Times Two, there is a nude scene in a bath-tub and Cecil B. de Mille would not have liked it. The nude is a man!

Omar Sharif bought his estranged wife an apartment in Paris. He told the attractive lady who was the Sophia Loren of Egypt: "You don't have to work any more." How many estranged husbands do you know who would be as kind as Omar?

A dastardly robbery is going on in The Italian Job in Northern Italy where Michael Caine, forsaking his right-side-of-the-law role, plays a crook involved in a $2,000,000 Jewel robbery that is masterminded by Noel Coward from a London prison. The master in jail? As you can guess it's a comedy!

Ignorant Know-Alls

SYDNEY HARRIS

One important "law" that Parisians neglected to formulate is perhaps the most important in the field of social behavior and reaction. It is this: The less we know firsthand about a situation, the firmer is our opinion about the way to handle it.

For example, the people who know least about what is going on in the colleges are the most dogmatic about resolving the problem of student dissent. To them it is clear-cut and simple: punishment for rebels and restoration of the old order.

But the closer one gets to the campus scene, the less black-and-white the picture becomes. There are many kinds of student revolts, for many reasons, and each must be judged on its own merits and resolved accordingly.

Likewise, the most affluent and isolated segment of the U.S. bourgeoisie is the most sure about the way to handle riots and civil disorders in the slums. The fact that they have never spent a day in a slum, and are wholly oblivious to the dynamics of ghetto living, only makes them more cocksure about "getting tough with lawbreakers."

And the same is true for all social problems. The persons closest to them are sensitive to many factors, are aware of the immense complexity and the vast difference between one situation and another. And they have no easy, effortless prescription for solving them—knowing that such prescriptions often make things worse rather than better.

Ignorance does not breed bliss as much as it generates certainty. If you have never had a delinquent child in your family, it is easy to say exactly how he should be handled and what should be done with delinquents. But if you are confronted with the personal reality, your attitude immediately changes—and for the better.

Knowing a situation firsthand makes you think of it in terms of people rather than of problems; and of individuals more than of people in the abstract.

It makes you understand how complicated are the causes of human behavior, and how difficult it is to find adequate remedies that will satisfy both the requirements of society and serve the best needs of the individual.

We all agree theoretically that "experience is the best teacher," yet most of us are willing to make bumpous judgments in the areas where we have had no experience at all—the rich tell the poor how to live, the healthy tell the sick the white pill the black. And all the advice is as fatuous as it is futile.

Yippies, Hippies Test Patiences

CHICAGO (UPI) — Antiwar protesters and yippies-hippies Tuesday invaded the Democratic national convention hotel headquarters, tested the approaches to tightly-guarded International Amphitheatre and braced for a new curfew showdown with club-swinging police.

A new left protest leader predicted an "escalating emergency" in this strife-torn city unless police halt "brutality and bloodshed" in controlling demonstrations and sweeping protesters out of lakefront Lincoln Park.

Members of the Youth International Party, the National Mobilization to end the war in Vietnam, the Students for a Democratic Society and other protest groups fanned out across the city to march, picket and otherwise harass the 12,900 man city police force.

More than 400 SDS members, chanting "peace" and "dump the hump," crowded into a lobby of the Conrad Hilton hotel. Four were arrested minutes before Humphrey was ushered, heavily guarded by secret service agents and police, into the hotel.

Six other antiwar protesters

By RICHARD DOUGHERTY

CHICAGO (LAT) — The sudden emergence of Hubert Humphrey as a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination appears to have stymied an attempt on the part of the forces of beat poet Allen Ginsberg to stampede the convention.

Norman Mailer, Ginsberg's campaign manager, has told reporters it is "virtually impossible" to ignore the excitement and enthusiasm that was being generated by the vice-president.

Mailer, novelist, actor, film director and migrant journalist said he still believed Ginsberg, the bearded four-letter evangelist of the visionary left, would make a better president.

But, Mailer added, "There is something about Hubert Humphrey that cannot be denied. It looks to me now as if he'll be drafted on the first ballot."

Meanwhile on other fronts, the presidential enterprise of Georgia Governor Lester Maddox suffered what could be a crippling blow with an "underground press" allegation that a disappointed state office seeker had burned the governor's personal library.

The report, subsequently denied, was that both the governor's books had been totally destroyed, including one he had not finished writing.

The startling emergence of Humphrey as a major presidential contender was minimized by Sen. Eugene McCarthy, who accused the press of "overreacting" to the situation.

McCarthy, suggesting that the Humphrey phenomenon was a device originated by the forces of front-runner Sen. George McGovern, said:

"It's perfectly clear to anyone with a brain the size of a pea—and this might apply to newsmen as well as the ordinary delegate—that Hubert Humphrey has long had his heart set on opening a drugstore in Johnson City, Texas."

"He has discussed this often with me, and I am told with President Johnson as well, and it has seemed to all of us a ginger-peachy idea. He'll be able to hawk his unguents and other wares during the week and go dove-shooting with Mr. Johnson on weekends."

On still another front Mayor Richard Daley's Chicago police won new praise from the mass of unwashed Vietnam protesters who have gathered here to promote the candidacy of Humphrey.

A love-in in Lincoln Park organized by the young people proved so popular with the police that more than 400 showed up when only 50 had been expected.

"Like, this is more like it," chortled one of the long-haired huts. "It's like they really like us like we like them. And like when they hit us, you know, it's like with the soft end of the nightstick. This Daley is a cat we can really dig."

CHICAGO (AP) — Delegate strength for Hubert Humphrey became overwhelming Tuesday after the governors of Texas, Tennessee and South Carolina dropped favorite-son roles at the Democratic convention.

The latest AP tally showed 1,159 pledged first-ballot votes for Humphrey where 1,312 are needed to win. Other counts are Eugene McCarthy 487, George McGovern 512, others 197, and uncommitted 727.

Illegal Working

Deportation Faces Canadians in U.S.

OTTAWA (CPI) — The United States embassy issued a statement Tuesday warning that Canadians who go to work in the U.S. after entering the country as non-immigrant visitors are breaking American law and are eligible for deportation.

A number of deportations have taken place, a spokesman said.

The statement noted that some non-immigrant visitors from Canada, responding to newspaper advertisements, have entered the U.S. seeking employment or to buy a business. Under U.S. law, they are required to return to Canada after completing their employment arrangements, and apply for immigrant visas at a U.S. consular office.

THREE MONTHS

With receipt of the visa, which normally takes three months or more, they can enter the U.S. and legally begin to work. "Unfortunately," said the statement, "a number of visitors accept employment and begin to work immediately without first obtaining immigrant visas."

These persons are subject to immediate deportation.

The U.S. spokesman explained that under an American law that went into effect July 1, Canadian workers face increased delays in getting into the United States for work. The new law restricts immigration from Western Hemisphere countries to 120,000 persons a year. Those certified now for entry may not be able to get into the U.S. until after Christmas because of the delays brought about by the new immigration law.

The spokesman was not able to give any recent figures on the rate of deportations from the U.S.

However, in the 1966 fiscal year, 138,000 deportable aliens were located in the U.S., of whom 9,000 were Canadians. Roughly 10 per cent of the total were actually deported, the rest allowed to leave on their own responsibility.

Most of the aliens were held deportable because they had illegally accepted employment in the U.S. This problem has apparently grown, the spokesman said.

McCarthy Holds Support

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Eugene McCarthy's major opponents both said Tuesday they would endorse him if he won the Democratic presidential nomination, but McCarthy refused to give a similar guarantee.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey and Sen. George McGovern told the California delegation they would support the nominee of the democratic convention and campaign for him.

But McCarthy, in a joint appearance with his opponents, continued to insist he "could not support a Democratic candidate whose views did not come close to mine." Of all the potential nominees, he mentioned only Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) as fitting that category.

McCarthy has frequently been mentioned as a possible leader of a fourth party to run this November, should there be no other contender who is committed to eliminating U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

At the convention hotel, the McCarthy from the 15th floor Conrad Hilton, California state and it touched Michigan dents for McCarthy untaried a Avenue. A spokesman for the 150-foot chain of petitions for group said one million signa-

Vietnam Debate Starts After Midnight

Humphrey on Victory Doorstep

CHICAGO — Hubert Humphrey all but wrapped up the Democratic presidential nomination Tuesday when several southern favorite sons, led by Gov. John Connally of Texas, swung their crucial delegations behind the vice-president's triumphant banner.

Humphrey also appeared headed for a victory in a Democratic national convention showdown over a Vietnam platform plank tailored generally to President Johnson's war policies, despite vigorous opposition from the party's dovish wing. Debate in this plank went on far into the morning.

The rapid-fire developments, coming on the eve of the presidential balloting, caused consternation among supporters of Humphrey's

chief rivals. Sons, Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern. They began huddling frantically in search of an alternative candidate who might stop the hard-driving vice-president. (See below.)

The Knight newspapers, in a copyrighted interview with

McCarthy, quoted him as saying "I think so" when asked if Humphrey had the nomination "wrapped up."

"I think it was probably wrapped up more than 24 hours ago," McCarthy said.

700 votes and said "I don't even think Teddy could get enough votes to win."

But no sooner was the story out than Richard N. Goodwin, a top McCarthy aide, called the press together to deny that the senator had conceded the defeat.

"I have talked with Senator McCarthy and he has asked me to say he has not conceded defeat in the nomination fight," said Goodwin. After a series of victories against McCarthy supporters in settling challenges of disputed state delegations, Humphrey scored another major gain with the surge of delegate support from Texas, Tennessee and South Carolina. Most Negro delegates agreed Tuesday to withhold

Divided Dissidents Seek Kennedy Glue

From UPI, AP, Reuters

CHICAGO — Eugene McCarthy, George McGovern and California's powerful Jesse Unruh were reported Tuesday night to have discussed a possible presidential draft of Edward Kennedy with the Massachusetts senator's brother-in-law.

An aide to Unruh, who asked that he not be identified, told UPI that the California assembly speaker, who is chairman of the largely uncommitted 174-vote California delegation, wanted Democratic anti-Vietnam critics to unite behind a Kennedy candidacy.

"We think the votes here last night showed that the McCarthy and McGovern forces must unite in order to win this party's presidential nomination," the Unruh lieutenant said.

The report of the meeting between the two dove candidates for the presidential nomination came amid hectic maneuvering at the convention.

Time Requested

Convention officials said California had asked for time to offer a name in nomination for president Wednesday night. Mrs. Dorothy Bush, secretary to the national committee, said the request did not bear the name of who was to be entered into the race.

Informed sources within the California delegation said the letter seeking time Wednesday night was submitted to leave open the possibility that Kennedy's name might be submitted.

"The letter was sent up basically as a pro forma thing," said Unruh's news secretary, Richard Klein. "It was not done with any specific candidate in mind but to protect our interests."

Support Likely

A source told UPI that McCarthy conceded to Kennedy's brother-in-law, Stephen Smith, that he was all but certain of defeat, but still planned to have his name placed in nomination.

McCarthy was reported to have said, however, that he still hoped that Hubert Humphrey could be stopped from a first ballot victory and if Kennedy allowed his name to be entered, he might support the youngest of the four Kennedy brothers.

A top aide to McCarthy said Tuesday night the Minnesota senator met during the afternoon with Stephen Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law only to discuss the Democratic platform plank on Vietnam.

Unity Move

In Hyannis Port, Mass., a spokesman for Kennedy said Tuesday night that he would have "no comment" on a news report that Smith met McCarthy Tuesday to line up support for a presidential bid by Kennedy.

Despite the 36-year-old Massachusetts senator's plea Monday that his name not be put in nomination, Representative Robert Tieren of the Rhode Island delegation said he intended to place Kennedy's name.

Pungent Paulsen Life of the Party

CHICAGO (LAT) — Pat Paulsen, television comedian and the "S.T.A.G. Party" candidate for president, knocked the California Democratic delegation in the aisles Tuesday with a mock political speech.

Paulsen

Paulsen returned the compliment by praising Unruh as "one of the most powerful politicians in the city of Ingleside" (where Unruh lives), and said he had come to Chicago to entertain the troops.

In another allusion to the presence of troops here, Paulsen said he was thinking of appointing Chicago Mayor Richard Daley as his secretary of defence.

Richard Nixon also came in for some kidding when Paulsen announced that "this is my last press conference—you won't have Paulsen to kick around any more."

So did California Governor Ronald Reagan. Paulsen said Reagan had run as California's favorite son and asked: "Son of what?"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Richard Nixon led Democrats Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, Eugene McCarthy or President Johnson by identical six-point margins in a Louis Harris U.S. election survey conducted last Saturday.

The survey copyrighted by the Washington Post published Tuesday, represented a sharp upturn of more than 10 points in Nixon's standing with voters since the Republican convention and the invasion of Czechoslovakia, Harris said. It also showed a loss of edge for McCarthy in relation to Humphrey, he said.

There have been no recent gains for third-party candidate George Wallace of Alabama, he said, but there has been a firming up of voter cleavages over the racial issue.

The survey showed as of Aug. 24:

In a Nixon-Humphrey-Wallace race: Nixon 40 per cent, Humphrey 34 per cent, Wallace 17 per cent and not sure, 9 per cent.

In a Nixon-McCarthy-Wallace race: Nixon 41 per cent, McCarthy 35 per cent, Wallace 16 per cent and not sure 8 per cent.

In a Nixon-Johnson-Wallace race: Nixon 42 per cent, Johnson 36 per cent, Wallace 16 per cent and not sure 6 per cent.

In a July 26-29 survey, Humphrey led Nixon 41 per cent to 36, and McCarthy led Nixon 43 per cent to 35. The Nixon-Johnson question was not asked at that time.

Pilots Ratify Contract To End Strike Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada pilots have ratified a labor agreement and will not strike against the airline, it was announced Tuesday.

Cleve Kidd, executive vice-president of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association, announced that a "substantial majority" of Air Canada's pilots had voted to accept an agreement worked out last week. The proposed agreement averted a threatened walkout by the airline's 1,122 pilots. If it had not been ratified in the secret ballot vote completed Tuesday, a strike would have started at 2 a.m. today.

The 27-month contract provides for a 10-per-cent increase immediately and a further seven per cent after 15 months. The pilots had originally asked for a 21-per-cent over-all increase.

Air Canada expressed pleasure at news of the ratification and said normal service will continue.

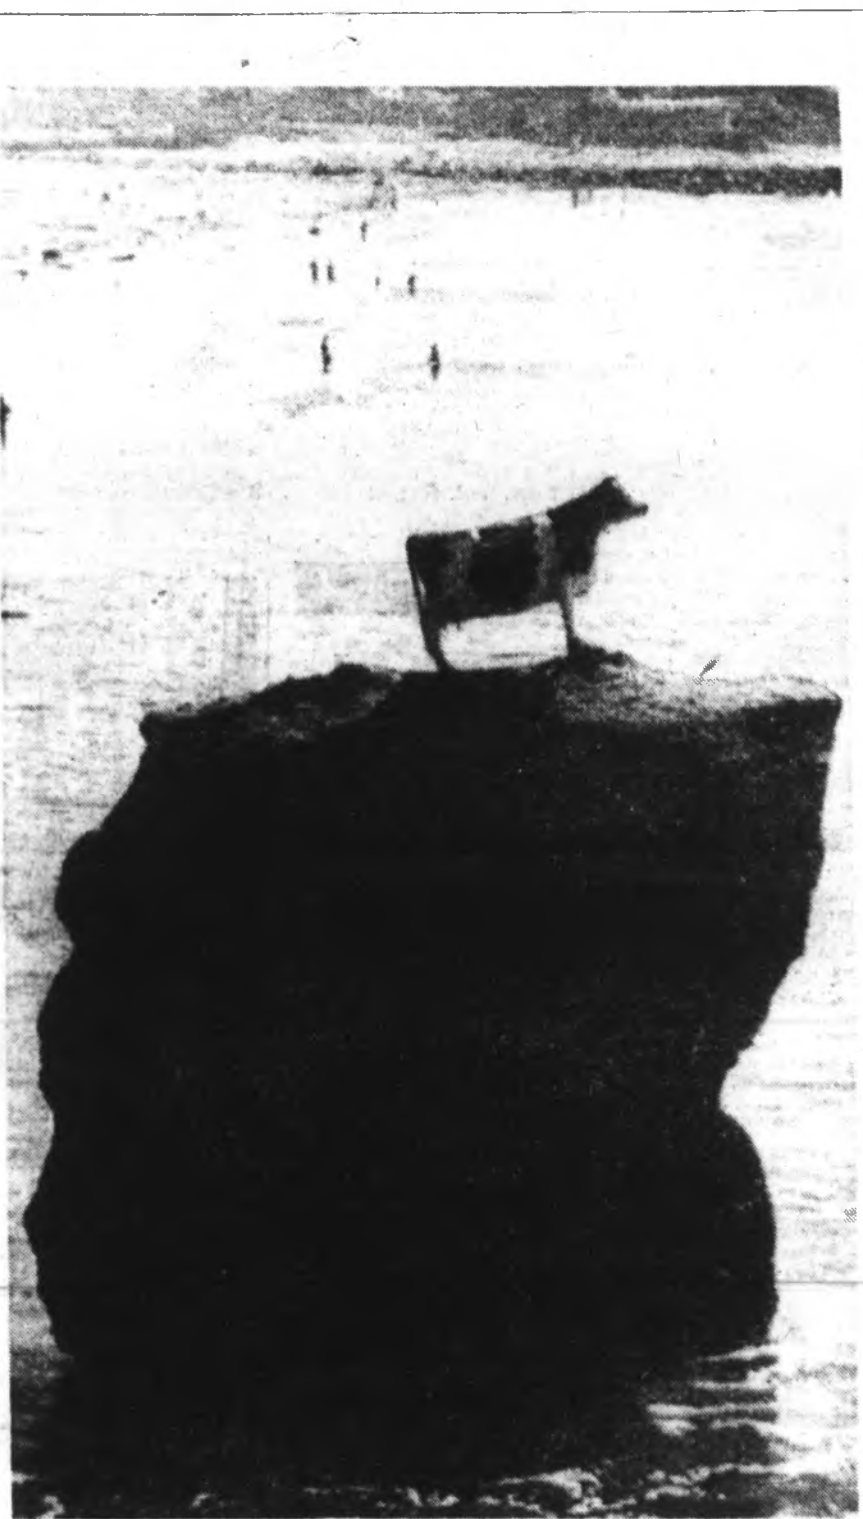

A spokesman said the total contract package will cost the airline $6,700,000 over the 27 months. Air Canada's pilot payroll is about $15,000,000 a year.

Dubcek pays dearly for "Freedom." Page 5.

From AP-Reuters

PRAGUE—His voice heavy with emotion, First Secretary Alexander Dubcek of the Czechoslovak Communist party appealed to the nation Tuesday night for support as their leaders try to rule in the presence of thousands of Soviet occupation troops.

But first indications were that the support was not forthcoming.

Demonstrators ripped down pictures of Dubcek and President Ludvik Svoboda and marched through downtown Prague shouting: "We do not want to live on our knees."

Soviet armored cars drove into the side streets when they sighted the marchers. Dubcek said the compromise agreement he and other Czechoslovak leaders negotiated in Moscow calls for gradual withdrawal of the troops from cities and towns to special areas if Czechoslovak authorities are able to maintain order.

He also disclosed that some measures swept out in the liberalization program begun by Czechoslovak reform leaders last January will be re-introduced. They include press censorship, beginning today.

It was Dubcek's first speech to the public since the invasion a week ago. President Ludvik Svoboda followed with an address pledging the government and party will continue the liberalization program.

But many Czechoslovaks expressed disappointment or bitterness when they learned that the occupation troops will not leave immediately.

"We have been sold out," some cried, while others wept openly as news of the agreement spread.

Immediately following Svoboda's speech, several free Czechoslovak radio stations broadcast protests demanding that the Soviet-Czechoslovak agreement be rejected because it was reached under pressure and threats.

The clandestine stations emphasized that the agreement would be valid only after ratification by the parliament. Czechoslovak party central committee, party congress and the Slovak party congress now meeting in Bratislava.

As the angry Prague marchers thronged the entrance to the parliament building, a deputy told them from a first-floor window: "Parliament will not endorse any agreement that is against our freedom to speak and to write, or against our sovereignty."

There was a great roar of approval when he added: "Parliament does not agree with the Moscow communiqué."

"We will do our best to make this republic democratic, sovereign and free."

National Assembly leader Josef Smrkovsky, weeping as he reported the agreement to stunned deputies, said: "It was a necessary compromise."

The deputies broke into cries of "Tell the truth" and "Long live Czechoslovakia."

Reuters news agency reported observers here believe that should the agreement be ratified, Dubcek would have no effective independent powers to humanize and liberalize the Communist system in Czechoslovakia.

Part of the agreement calls for the stationing of Soviet troops along the border with West Germany for an undisclosed period.

A communiqué issued here and in Moscow, at the conclusion of the talks there between

MUNICH, West Germany (Reuters) — Soviet troops took up positions at several points along the 235-mile Czechoslovak border with West Germany Tuesday for the first time since the end of the Second World War.

It looks as if the Russians are taking over now," a Bavarian border police chief, Gustav Hanning said here.

Earlier, Czechoslovak officials in Prague said Czechoslovakia had to agree to Soviet troops being stationed along the border as part of the agreement reached in Moscow.

Border traffic across the three Bavarian-Czechoslovak checkpoints had come almost to a standstill. (See also Page 3)

Canada Can Tap 'Billions'

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP) — Dr. Arleigh Laycock of the University of Alberta's geography department said Tuesday that if 10 per cent of Canada's surplus water was exported to the United States, it would mean $8,000,000,000 a year to Canada.

The $8,000,000,000 received from surplus water would be 10 times the average wheat sales in Canada in the last decade, he said. "The prospects are exciting."

Laycock said that by the year 2000, Canada will still be using only 2 per cent of its water supply, and export sales might well be warranted for the surplus. But many studies are needed and there is insufficient information on which to base them at present, he said.

Troops Eye Marchers

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — More than 90,000 demonstrators marched on the presidential palace Tuesday under the eye of Mexican army troops backed by armored cars.

There was no violence in the demonstration.

Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders spoke of a plan for gradual withdrawal of troops, but no timetable was set. Some Czechoslovak leaders say as many as 100,000 foreign troops are likely to remain for a long time.

One Czechoslovak official said the agreement calls for the troops to be withdrawn from communities to barracks inside Czechoslovakia, and then back to their own countries.

Reuters reported the number of occupation troops in the country at between 250,000 and 500,000.

Officials feared there would be new demonstrations against Soviet troops by Czechoslovaks angry that no date for withdrawal had been set.

INCREDIBLY DIFFICULT

Soviet tanks withdrew from several strategic points in Prague, but they still lined side streets and guarded buildings housing the defence and interior ministries.

"We can now return to the work of government in an incredibly difficult situation," said Dubeck, who only a few days before had been accused of treason by the invading Soviets and spirited to Moscow.

Dubeck announced he had assumed command of the militia and asked officials to respect the directives to be issued this week after he "rethought the problems with the people."

Noting that the presence of occupation troops was "a political reality," Dubeck and Svoboda appealed to the people to avoid provocations.

GAINS ONE GOAL

Svoboda reported that he had achieved one of his major goals in Moscow—acceptance of the reformist government and reinstatement of Dubeck and Premier Oldrich Cernik.

He said Czechoslovak leaders had agreed to curb all press attacks on the five Warsaw pact nations that invaded Czechoslovakia.

The Moscow communiqué said the occupation troops will not interfere in Czechoslovakia's internal affairs.

EFFECTIVE MEASURES

It added that the Czechoslovaks gave assurances that "all work of the party and state bodies would be directed at ensuring effective measures serving the socialist power, the guiding rule of the working class and the Communist party."

This apparently referred to some concessions by the Czechoslovak leaders, but they were not spelled out.

"Troops of the allied countries that entered temporarily the territory of Czechoslovakia will withdraw as the situation normalizes," the communiqué said. "The Czechoslovak armed forces have been given appropriate orders with the aim of preventing incidents and conflicts capable of violating the peace and public order."

"As before, the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia will administer a resolute rebuff to militaristic, revanchist and neo-Nazi forces that want to revise the results of the Second World War, to encroach on the inviolability of the existing borders in Europe."

CO-OPERATION HELPS

Svoboda told his people: "The events in our country these days threatened every hour to have most terrible consequences. As a soldier, I am well aware what bloodshed a conflict between the population and a well-equipped army can cause. I, as your president, considered it my duty to prevent it, to prevent senseless bloodshed but at the same time to try to secure the basic interest of our country and its people."

Dubeck said civilian co-operation in restoring the country's economy would help remove measures that might restrict freedom.

The backing of the Czechoslovak people has strengthened the regime's determination to continue its liberal course despite "Communist world pressure," he said.

Dubeck added that some people might have doubts about the agreement reached in the Kremlin, but he assured the nation that "there will be no going back on the ideas of humanity and democracy."

Quebec May Face General Strike

Medication to Remove Fluids Should End Hacking Cough

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I read your article on congestive heart failure with interest as I have had several heart attacks since 1952.

I now take digitalis, but recently I have had a hacking cough which has plagued me night and day.

Can you suggest something to relieve this? Cough mixtures have been a complete failure.—S. S.

A harassing cough such as you describe is not unusual in congestive heart failure, but cough mixtures are not, as a rule, of much help because the cough is not the result of throat irritation or the like.

Rather, the cough in such cases as yours is more usually the result of fluid accumulation in the lungs, and sometimes in the pleural space.

The cough is a reflex action as the body tries to rid itself of this fluid but cannot. Cough mixtures cannot do anything to get rid of the accumulated fluid.

However, medications of the diuretic type (which help remove excess fluids from the body) commonly are necessary in addition to the use of digitalis which strengthens the heart.

Therefore, if you have not reported this cough to your doctor, I would do so promptly. Sometimes a chest X-ray will provide considerable, useful information about your condition.

Dear Dr. Molner: I would appreciate an explanation of an enlarged heart, how one gets it, whether there is a cure, if it is dangerous, and what precautions one should take.—Mrs. J. B.

In general, an enlarged heart represents the result of some flaw in the heart or excessive, continued strain on it. When or if the basic heart condition is corrected, the enlargement may, in part, be corrected, too, but seldom totally.

The danger of an enlarged heart may be considerable or may be very slight, depending on what caused it and what has been done about it.

Caucus spokesmen said the Negro delegates would vote instead for Rev. Channing Phillips, favorite-son candidate from the District of Columbia.

Representative John Conyers of Detroit told a press conference he was disappointed at this convention because "issue after issue has been subverted to the cause of conservatism."

Delegates to the 35th Democratic national convention, gathered to order at 4 p.m. PDT, sang "Happy birthday" to the president (his 60th) and in less than two minutes settled seating controversy involving the Georgia delegation that had kept the opening session seething with emotion into the early hours Tuesday.

Some Georgia regulars walked out of the hall when the convention shouted approval of a compromise splitting Georgia's 43 votes between a regular delegation and a biracial "loyalist" group led by Negro state Rep. Julian Bond.

Although Johnson decided to remain at his Texas ranch and watch on television he made his presence felt when he expressed hope in a birthday interview that the Democratic candidate's position in Vietnam would not differ much from his own.

He told newsmen he hoped "the world will not have to wait until November to pick the softest spot"—an apparent reference to suspicions that North Vietnam is awaiting the outcome of the presidential election to determine its future course in the war.

On the eve of the balloting for the party's 1968 standard bearer, Gov. Connally of Texas, Johnson's close friend and political ally—

Humphrey's aides saw "no direct test" of Humphrey's delegate strength in the outcome of the Vietnam floor battle, but any serious rebuff to the Johnson-style platform would be a heavy psychological blow to the president's heir apparent.

The break in the southern ranks, which has previously shown signs of disenchantment with Humphrey, came less than 24 hours after the platform committee approved a campaign document of party principles rejecting dovish calls for an unconditional half in bombing of North Vietnam.

Humphrey said that while he wanted peace, he did not intend to repudiate the president.

Connally said he hoped the abandonment of his favorite son role would "make it apparent that the vice-president would receive the nomination." The Texas group, he added, felt that to join Humphrey now "would have a salutary effect on the decisions that are to follow."

As the convention floor proceedings got underway, a loudly blaring brass band contrasted with the mostly serious looking delegates who milled around the floor. Generally missing were the jolly handshakes and warm greetings that marked the Monday night session prior to the bitter seating contests.

Tierman said the aim of his move is to unite the party "and all those people who are now disenchanted" with the policies offered by the other candidates.

He said he had not been in personal touch with Kennedy but had spoken to "people in close touch with the senator."

Tierman believed if there was "a genuine draft movement—a grass-roots movement—the senator would accept the nomination."

By Whom?

Former Ohio governor Michael DiSalle, who dropped his own plan to nominate Kennedy after the senator's plea to him Monday, declared: "The nomination will be made by me. I don't know who will do it."

"I certainly feel if the office seeks him he will accept it," DiSalle added.

Senator Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, floor manager of Senator George McGovern's campaign for the presidential nomination said Kennedy would "sweep this convention" if he bid openly for the nomination.

But Representative Edward Boland of Massachusetts, a long-time ally of Kennedy and his brothers, said he was "trying to discourage" the draft talk.

Daley's Hint

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, head of the Illinois delegation, said he did not expect Kennedy to run for any office this year, but held out the possibility that his brother-in-law, R. Sargent Shriver, ambassador to France, might become the party's vice-presidential choice.

The first demonstration for Kennedy for president broke out on the floor of the convention late Tuesday.

Home-made signs were raised at the rear of the floor, apparently in the California and Colorado section and the alternate and spectator rows in the balcony.

"We want Kennedy, we want Kennedy," the demonstrators chanted.

But convention chairman Carl Albert immediately ordered the demonstrators to stop or lose their credentials and be evicted from the floor.

New York Bloc

UPI's Albany correspondent, Kirtland King, reported that a powerful bloc of New York delegates were getting ready to join a possible Kennedy draft.

William van den Heuvel, a close Kennedy friend and a member of the 190-vote New York delegation, said he was convinced that Kennedy would accept a "genuine draft."

Like the stymie and the hickory shaft, the sand tee is something that is entirely unknown to the younger generation of golfer. They represent changes in the game made in the ten-year period after the First World War and are now history.

The sand tee went out when somebody carved a piece of wood into what was now the peg tee. Early pegs looked like carrots and they were a refinement on the rubber mounts which a number of players used as an early alternative to sand.

It took a few years to wean the older golfer from sand and many found the purchase of wooden tees an expensive luxury. As a result, many tied pieces of wool to the pegs so that if knocked off the teeing ground, they would be found fairly easily.

Today, many clubs provide their members with free tees and they are no longer considered anything but expendable. Gone with the sand tees, too, are the sand boxes which on the old days served as one of the tee markers. They varied in shape and character. A few of them still survive locally but as trash containers.

Greenkeepers found them a bit of a nuisance because they had to be kept filled and at the correct degree of moisture to make a firm castle.

Caddies were often required to build the tees for their masters, but other golfers did the job themselves, using a variety of building methods from the Mount Baker pinnacle type to the solid mass exemplified by bulky Mount Rainier. Most of us were artists at the task.

The departure of the sand boxes also removed opportunities for practical joking. I remember on one occasion the Celtic football team of Glasgow went off to the Ayrshire coast on special cup-tie training and golf was one of the ordained exercises.

Some of the young footballers had never seen a golf course before and they were sent out to caddy for those who had. One youngster was left without a bag to tote and his clubmates told him his job was to carry round the sand box. He sweated with the heavy box as far as the second tee, where he found a second box and he was told sweetly by his teammates "Why they have a sand box on every tee! You can carry your one back to the first tee."

There is, however, one reason why the departure of the sand tee is to be regretted. Sand repeatedly applied to the teeing surface gave teeing grounds a fine firm texture which many of them do not have today. In addition, when a player did scoop away a big divot it was etiquette in those days to fill the hole with sand from the box.

Today, large divots are hacked out of the tees and very few players ever think about replacing them even though they would do so automatically on the fairway. Hence, our teeing grounds get badly and unnecessarily chewed up. A sand box near the tee — whether filled with sand or top soil mixture would greatly aid course maintenance.

The lucky fellows who are to get a trip to Melbourne, Australia in October representing Canada in the World Cup matches will be taking part in golf's most international event. Anything up to 45 countries have regularly played in this team championship.

The Canadian team looks a strong one and it can be expected to put up a good show although it may hardly be good enough to win. Australia, the United States, Britain, South Africa and New Zealand will be ranked with Canada among the favorites.

Jim Doyle and Bob Wylie, who won their places on fine form in the recent Canadian amateur at Edmonton are both former professionals. Doyle, although the Canadian champion, is little known outside his own Winnipeg because he was reinstated to amateur ranks only this year, and as a result he has played no open golf for five years during his qualifying-for-reinstatement period.

Gary Cowan has played so often in international events that he must be considered the No. 1 man of the team. He prefers stroke to match play so that the World Trophy contest is right down his street. Four years ago at Japan, Cowan surprised many by finishing with the lowest individual total in the world-wide field and he is so long off the tee and has improved his accuracy so much this year that he must be regarded once again as a top contender.

The preference of the selectors for John Johnston of Vancouver to either Keith Alexander or Doug Silverberg of Calgary is perhaps a minor surprise, particularly as Johnston had failed to qualify for the B.C. Willington Cup team.

However, Johnston's fine form in the British Amateur where he reached the fifth round at Troon, and his low qualifying scoring in the Canadian Amateur coupled with his past dependability in stroke events no doubt gave him the nod.

I don't remember a previous Canadian team in which each of the four members came from different provinces. With B.C., Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario represented, it is a well diversified side.

George Bigelow's hole in one at the second hole at Oak Bay on Saturday probably ties him in top place with Phil Taylor for the number of aces scored.

Phil has lost an accurate count of the number of times he has holed out from the tee but he reckons it at about 14—the number now enjoyed by Bigelow.

A lot of people wonder how it is that Bigelow scores so many holes-in-one, but it certainly is no fluke. Few players punch their iron shots so truly and boldly for the flag. In addition to his 14 aces, George must have hundreds of times been left with no more than a putt of a few inches.

leaders, Detroit Olympics, 17-13, before 4,078 fans.

The victory lifted Carlings two points ahead of Portland Adanacs. Olympics missed a chance to clinch the title in their division.

Carlings were outscored in just one period, taking a 9-3 lead in the first period and extending the margin to 17-11 entering the final 20 minutes. Olympics scored the only two goals of the final period.

It was the second game of Vancouver's four-game Eastern trip. Carlings lost, 12-11, in overtime to Peterborough on Sunday. Carlings play tonight in Toronto and Thursday in Montreal.

Gary Stevens and Gord Fredrickson each scored three goals for the winners while Bob Salt, Dennis Nagy, Bill Barbour and Whitley Nelson each added two goals.

Bill Robinson, Sid Warlick and Bill Chisholm scored the other goals.

Tom Conlin had four goals and two assists for the losers. Neil Lotton, with two goals, Glen Armstrong, Elmer Tran, Bob Brown, Jerry McKenna, Gaylord Powless, Bill Squires and Jim Henderson also scored for Detroit.

Kickers Top Scorers

Placekickers, headed by Saskatchewan's Bill Goods, hold down the top four places in the Western Football Conference scoring race while a rangy flanker is making a one-man race for Eastern Conference honors.

Goods has 39 points on 12 converts, seven field goals and six singles for a four-point lead over Calgary's Larry Robinson.

Peter Kempf of Edmonton and Ted Gerola of British Columbia Lions have 27 and 26 points respectively. Pass-catching Terry Evanshen of Calgary is in fifty place with 24 points on four touch downs.

Flanker Whit Tucker of Ottawa has scored nine touch downs, all on passes, to lead the east with 54 points while placekicker Don Sutherland, also of Ottawa, is a distant second with 35 points.

Touring Pros Picked Again

TORONTO (CP) — George Knudson and Al Balding, both of Toronto will represent Canada at the World Cup competition in Rome Nov. 14-17, the Canadian Professional Golfers Association announced Tuesday.

Knudson, who has won about $80,000 on the Professional Golfers Association tour in the United States, had the low individual score at the Canada Cup matches in Tokyo two years ago.

It is the second year in a row that Balding and Knudson have been named to the team.

Soviet Team Numbers 401

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union will send 401 athletes to the Mexico City Olympic games, the Soviet Olympic committee announced Tuesday.

Soviet athletes will compete in basketball, boxing, wrestling, cycling, volleyball, water polo, gymnastics, equestrian track and field, rowing, kayak and canoe, yachting, swimming and diving, modern pentathlon, shooting, weightlifting and fencing.

The division winners will meet in a best-of-seven national final.

If teams are tied at the end of the regular schedule, position will be decided by a sudden-death playoff, Kelly said.

Orioles Take Giant Step In Chase for Pennant

Baltimore Orioles must appear like giant constrictors to Detroit Tigers these days.

Just when it seemed the Tigers had shaken off a rush by the Orioles and Cleveland Indians a few weeks ago, the Orioles have come back strongly and Tuesday moved to within four games of the American League leaders.

Baltimore climbed a game and a half by sweeping a doubleheader from the Oakland Athletics, 5-3 and 7-2, while the Tigers were stopped by Chicago White Sox, 2-1.

Nothing has gone right lately for the Tigers, who have lost five of their last six games. The Orioles are red hot and have won 17 of their last 24 games.

Denny McLain, Detroit's 25-game winner, was to have started Tuesday but was sent back to Detroit for treatment to his bothersome shoulder on Monday.

John Hiller took over for McLain but Chicago managed 12 hits off Hiller, finally scoring the winning run on an error in the ninth inning.

Orioles survived a three-homer, splurge by Athletics in the sixth inning of the first game, winning on rookie Merv Rettenmund's two-run pinch homer in the bottom of the ninth inning — his first major league homer.

Wally Bunker pitched a six-hitter to pick up the win in the second game with the help of home runs by Don Buford and Curt Blefary, who also homered in the first game.

Boston Red Sox broke a three-place tie with the Indians by dumping Cleveland, 7-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Ray Culp.

YANKEES GET SPLIT

New York Yankees moved to within a half game of the first division by gaining a split in a doubleheader with California Angels, winning the first game, 2-0, before being stopped by the same score.

Bruce Lock's three-run double broke a 25-inning scoring famine by Minnesota Twins, leading his club to a 7-1 victory in the second game of a doubleheader with Washington Senators. Senators won the opener, 2-0.

In the National League, Larry Jaster suffered his sixth straight loss as the New York Mets blanked the leading St. Louis Cardinals, 4-0, behind the six-hit pitching of Dick Selma.

Second place San Francisco Giants stayed ahead of Cincinnati Reds by downing the Chicago Cubs, 8-4, as rookie Bobby Bonds drove in six runs with two home runs and a ground out.

Cincinnati drubbed Philadelphia Phillies, 10-0, as Tony Cloninger pitched a four-hitter, struck out 11 and drilled two hits, including a three-run double.

Houston Astros dumped Los Angeles Dodgers deeper into the cellar with a 4-2 victory. The Dodgers had more bad news Tuesday with the announcement by their team physician, Dr. Robert Woods, that ace right-hander Don Drysdale may be out for the season with an inflamed shoulder.

Aussies Lose Match But Retain Ashes

LONDON (AP) — England defeated Australia by 226 runs in a test match Tuesday.

England and Australia thus tied the series with one victory each and three games drawn.

Derek Underwood, England's left-arm bowler, finished off the match by getting John Inverarity leg before wicket. That gave Underwood seven wickets for 50.

Inverarity was Australia's hero in defeat. Going in first Monday night, he was last man out and scored 56 in 44 hours.

Australia, needing 352 runs to win, started the day on 13 for 2 and slid to 86 for 5 before rain started falling just before the lunch interval.

It looked as if rain would rob England of a chance of victory as it has done in two previous matches in the series.

England retained the Ashes, symbol of cricket supremacy between the two countries.

Cowichan District

Rain May Delay School Opening

DUNCAN — Cowichan district school board may have to defer the opening of the Mount Prevost junior secondary school next week.

At Monday night's meeting, Trustee Dave Evans reported that the school may have to open a few days late because of construction delays.

Burak Construction Ltd. of Duncan is putting a $268,000 addition on to the school. It comprises a second story, consisting of six classrooms and two science rooms.

The job also includes doubling the size of the existing gymnasium, the addition of a cafeteria and various renovations. Trustee Evans said that part of the construction work includes removal of the first floor roof. But because of the consistent rainfall during the past week, the contractor has been unable to remove the roof.

"We hope this delay in construction will not stop the school from opening next Tuesday," he said, "but the building committee would like to have the board's permission to open late if necessary."

The large addition is expected to be completed sometime in February next year. Board Chairman Joe Frumento asked Trustee Evans if it would be possible to make up the time lost with studies later in the year.

He was informed that would be almost impossible because the school will be on a shift system until the addition is ready for use.

Final details on the shift system, planned for the first six months of the school year have not yet been released.

Transportation to the school will pose a problem for the first part of the year, reported Jack Efford, transportation chairman.

Trustee Efford said the district would need three temporary drivers to work a broken shift.

"They will work eight actual working hours in an 11 hour shift," he said. "The bus driver's union, the IWA, is to be contacted about hiring additional bus drivers on a temporary basis."

Cowichan Bay

Duncan Angler Wins Derby

COWICHAN BAY — A total of 46 out of 50 qualifying anglers took part on Sunday in the annual Cowichan Bay Salmon Club spring salmon ladder derby fish-off.

Winner of the $75 first prize was D. B. Walker of Duncan who brought in a 26 pounds 15 ounce spring.

Bill Sloan, of 1397 David Street, Victoria, took the second prize of $50 with a 20 pounds 8 ounce catch. Mr. Sloan was top ladder man during the five-week derby and he was presented with an engraved silver tray by Third prize of $25 went to Steve Woloshyn of Cobble Hill who caught a 19 pounds 10 ounce spring salmon.

Hidden weight prizes of $10 each went to Walter Bell of Mesachie Lake 3 pounds 10 ounce spring salmon.

Hidden weight prizes of $10 each went to Walter Bell of Mesachie Lake 13 pounds 4 ounces and Andy Bell of Lake Cowichan six pounds 12 ounces.

The club's coho derby will be held Oct. 12 to Oct. 14, Thanksgiving weekend.

Nanaimo Guests

Noisy Road Brings Motel Complaint

NANAIMO — Members of Nanaimo city council were invited to spend a night at a motel Monday.

The invitation came in a letter from the management of Westward Ho motel which complained that guests were being disturbed by the noise of motorcycles and heavy tractor-trailers travelling along Terminal Avenue.

"Trying to sleep here is like trying to stay dry in the shower," said the letter. Any member of council, and Mayor Frank Ney, was invited to stay at the motel, free, to experience the noise at first hand.

Ald. Mega McDougall pointed out that nothing could be done until Nanaimo has a bypass.

ROAD SYSTEM

Ald. Ted Jenkinson agreed, saying nothing could be done until an over-all road system could be developed.

He said the bypass was a necessity but the city "is strapped until the provincial government comes up with financing."

"If the bypass goes through, it will certainly not go through the city of Nanaimo," he said. Aldermen sympathized with the letter, but agreed that little could be done.

LAND LEASE

A recommendation from the properties commission approving an application from Union Carbide, Canada, Ltd., to lease a one-acre parcel of land in Exhibition Park, was approved.

The company plans to open up a liquid gas distribution plant and undertake a limited amount of production at the site.

The land is adjacent to the E & N railway right of way. The company will lease it for 20 years at an annual rent of $1,080 for the first 10 years and negotiate a rate after that period.

LACROSSE TEAMS

Council congratulated three lacrosse teams—Nanaimo Luckies, A division, and Nanaimo O'Keefe's, B division, who won the B.C. championships at the weekend and will represent B.C. in eastern Canada, and Nanaimo Tykes which will compete in B.C. championships games.

"We extend our warmest compliments to these three lacrosse teams. We have had a very good sports week," said Mayor Frank Ney.

Guilty Plea Entered

NANAIMO — A 23-year-old Nanaimo woman appeared in magistrates' court Monday charged with assaulting a police constable and resisting arrest.

Mrs. Sandra J. Cousins was remanded to Sept. 3 for sentencing.

She was arrested after she scratched and struck Const. Pete Bulatovich, who was searching the car for liquor at Bastion and Front Street, court was told. The incident occurred about 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Cousins pleaded guilty to the charge.

Ronald Keith Stevens, 26, of Tofino, pleaded not guilty to similar charges arising from the same incident. He will appear for trial Sept. 13.

Student Wins Clayoquot Salmon Derby

TOFINO—Fifteen-year-old Danny Singleton won first prize in a salmon derby held in conjunction with Clayoquot Day on Stubbs Island at the weekend.

Danny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Singleton, managers and partners of Tofino's Hotel Maquinna.

He attends University School, Victoria and some years ago won the B.C. Judo championship in his weight group.

His winning salmon weighed 11 pounds for which he received $100 and a trophy.

Second prize of $50 went to James Bradshaw, of Tofino Motors, whose catch weighed 9½ pounds. Thirteen-year-old Roddy MacKenzie of MacKenzie Beach won the $25 third prize with a fish weighing 8½ pounds.

A special prize for the largest fish, other than salmon, was gained by thirteen-year-old Douglas Sloman whose catch weighed 15 pounds.

Winner of the derby weight-guessing competition was Mrs. Dennis Singleton.

There were 12 entries in the derby and some competitors were out at first light on Saturday. The fish were weighed at noon by fisheries officers N. Seymour Sr. The event was sponsored by Tofino Chamber of Commerce.

It is estimated that about 500 people attended the Clayoquot Day program which included land and water sports, games and a salmon barbecue.

Although the organizers were afraid that wet weather might wash out the day, the rain kept off.

Boat owners provided visitors with transportation to Clayoquot.

SPORTS PROGRAM in Clayoquot Day program held at Stubbs Island, near Tofino, included races, water events and salmon barbecue. Above,

Forest Fire Tragedy

No Blame Attached In Bomber Crash

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—A jury returned a verdict of accidental death, with no blame attached to anyone, following an inquest Tuesday night into the death of two Victoria pilots.

The jury stated that Thomas Chapman Swanson, 33, of 6778 Veynes, and co-pilot Thomas Henry Worley, 47, of 4190 Springridge Crescent died as a result of a crash of an Canso water bomber Aug. 8 and the resulting fire. The plane was helping to fight a forest fire about eight miles west of Shawnigan Lake.

John Anderson Cline, of Abbotsford pilot of a second Canso water bomber in the area of the crash, said the other plane was operated normally as far as he and his co-pilot could determine.

Mr. Cline's aircraft left the area before the crash. David Keith Johnston of Aldergrove who was piloting a bird-dog aircraft, told about the Canso bomber's last drop.

He said: "It looked like a normal drop, except I saw a cloud of dust or ash come up and some wood flew. I had never seen anything like that before but since the drop was in a different area, I didn't think there was anything abnormal at the time."

VERY CAREFUL.

Mr. Johnston said he banked his plane away from the Canso bomber after it made its drop and he did not see it crash.

He added that the two men had made good drops in the past and they were very careful.

Cedric Roy Swonder of Shawnigan Lake logging manager for a B.C. Forest Products firm operating in the area, said he saw the bomber's last drop from his position on the ground.

LOW LEVEL.

"I saw it coming in ... it came in at what I considered an alarmingly low level," he said.

About half way through the drop there was an explosion, he said. The plane continued to fly over the road about 30 feet above the ground.

"It was obvious part of the left wing was missing," said Mr. Swonder.

Police said that subsequent investigation showed the left wing of the water bomber had struck a small tree before it crashed into the forest.

FLAME-BURST

The bomber promptly burst into flames and a series of secondary explosions blew parts of the plane over a radius of more than 50 feet.

An autopsy report stated that the pathologist was unable to identify the few remains of the bodies.

Zorkin View:

Czech Incident Means Unrest

By HENRY BESIER

NANAIMO—A period of tremendous unrest in East Germany and Poland, as a result of the Czech crisis, is forecast by Mladen Zorkin, Liberal candidate in the June 25 federal election for Nanaimo-Cowichan.

Mr. Zorkin, who is a former resident of Croatia, now part of Yugoslavia, bases his prediction on his experience as a freedom fighter in Eastern Europe and his contacts with those who are, or have been, associated with the Czechoslovakian liberal movement.

Mr. Zorkin's uncle, Rudolf Gunio, was a close collaborator of Thomas Masaryk, first president of Czechoslovakia after the First World War. His unpublished memoirs were left in Mr. Zorkin's possession. Mr. Gunio died a few years ago.

Mr. Zorkin feels that "a lot of people who take an active part in world peace should discuss the Czechoslovak invasion."

"The real fear of the Kremlin was much more the fear of disclosure of their own system than the liberal reforms in Czechoslovakia."

He said Czech people are the more intellectually educated people in Eastern Europe and the most industrially progressive as a nation.

The Czech crisis is not a question of whether or not Czechoslovakian communists would support the Warsaw Pact, he said.

More Island News

"The question is the moral right of the courageous Czechoslovakians to disclose to the world some of the most inhuman methods of making people confess to communist propaganda."

Mr. Zorkin said there is feeling now that Nicolae Ceausescu, president of Romania and President Tito of Yugoslavia are freedom-minded supporters of the Czech liberation cause. But both Ceausescu and Tito are still dictators quite different from Alexander Dubcek.

"Even if Tito and Ceausescu are not with Moscow, they are still protecting their secret weapons of holding power by dictatorial methods."

"Czechoslovakians, through Dubcek, broke the resistance of fear, intimidation and other powerful allies to dictatorship."

"Dubcek as a Slovak and representative of the minority group is aware of the Czech people's need to fight moral and intellectual oppression."

"You can hold a fool in chains, but you can't hold a nation. The Czechoslovakians are the leading forces among all the Slovak peoples for freedom, and have established the first bridge between individual freedom (democracy) and the social justice (which they call socialism) through communism."

"People in North America should know that the Czech invasion was no coincidence. It's the last phase of Hitler-like methods to prevent the free expression of millions of people in eastern Europe."

Lake Cowichan

Big Improvements Planned for Road

Premier Bennett announced Tuesday the government will spend $1,700,000 on improvements to the Lake Cowichan Road—a project that Opposition Leader Strachan has been urging in the legislature since 1956.

Mr. Strachan, in a telephone interview from his home at Cedar, recalled that the premier had assured the House last session the project would go ahead in 1968. He added: "Naturally, I'm very pleased."

The estimated $1,700,000 cost of the project includes grading, ditching and other new construction on 12.9 miles of the route which has already been cleared.

OTHER CONTRACTS

Mr. Bennett also announced that treasury board has approved the calling of tenders for the following contracts:

Log Truck Rolls Over Edge

CAMPBELL RIVER—Nine-year-old Douglas Meir of Campbell River received head injuries in a logging truck accident at Upper Campbell Lake at the weekend.

Mr. Meir was travelling to Campbell River on the Gold River road when the loaded truck suddenly veered to the left and went over an embankment.

He jumped clear, landed on rocks and rolled over others. The truck went 60 feet down the embankment before hitting a stump. The logs slid forward and wrecked the cab.

Mr. Meir is reported in satisfactory condition in Campbell River hospital. He was involved in a truck accident about a month ago when his vehicle was burned.

Port Alberni Controversy

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI—Residents of the Bell and Hector road area are determined to block a suggestion by the city to put a sanitary landfill in that area.

They met at Sprout Lake Hall Monday when it was decided to send letters to the controller of water rights, health department, regional district committee, city council, MLA Dr. Howard MacDiarmid and MP Dick Durand.

The meeting was chaired by Colin Wilson who is also chairman of the Alberni Valley Citizens Committee on Pollution. The group is concerned about the proximity of the old Hector Road gravel pit to the Somass River which supplies water to north Port Alberni.

'DEADLY EFFECT'

Mr. Wilson said cans which have contained pesticides and insecticides end up in the garbage.

Many of those have a deadly accumulative effect which cannot be washed or filtered away, and constitute an additional hazard on top of ordinary seepage problems, he said.

The group hopes that its strong protest will be enough to restrain the city from using the Hector Road site.

"But if it is necessary we would organize the entire former city of Alberni," warned a spokesman for the group.

DISPOSAL SYSTEM

Mr. Wilson said the meeting had brought out the need for some form of metropolitan garbage disposal system, and a metropolitan water system to serve the rapidly growing community.

At the city council meeting, also held Monday night, Ald. George McKnight appealed to residents not to become emotional about the situation too hastily. He said engineers' reports have not even been received yet on the suitability of the possible site. No firm decision has been made on the matter.

"The whole concept of a sanitary landfill is contained in its name—sanitary," Mr. McKnight said.

WOODS TRAIL.

"The whole idea is to eliminate rats, smell etc. At the present time, almost any trail through the woods leads to a pile of garbage. There are numerous cases where as many as a dozen old car bodies, stripped and tipped over, can be seen along country roads."

"It is a terrible blight and getting worse. The problem of garbage disposal involves the whole community, not just the city. The whole community should unite to find a site or sites where garbage can be properly disposed of."

"I hope the present situation will not resolve itself into an emotional accusation and counter-accusation battle."

He added: "No one need be alarmed that the Hector Road site is going to be used if there is any danger of pollution of either air or water as a result."

TECHNICAL FIELDS

Ald. Charles Blair, chairman of the regional district, said the matter had been discussed and referred to the advisory technical committee. The committee is made up of representatives of various government departments who are proficient in technical fields.

The group has been looking for a suitable site, but most ravines have creeks or streams running through them. Their use does not meet with approval from the fisheries department. "We want something we'll have no problems with," said Ald. Blair.

The idea that the city would suggest any course of action that would end up by polluting its own water supply is ridiculous, said Mayor Fred Bishop.

OUTSIDE AREAS

"I don't know why anyone got the impression we were going to do anything that would lead to pollution. We have been co-operating with the outside areas in the use of our garbage dumps. They have been paying toward the use, but we have still had to provide all the facilities. This is a joint problem, and by no means an easy one."

"There appear to be a lot of misconceptions about the function of a sanitary landfill. The name itself implies it is clean and sanitary. I have seen them right in the middle of town in some places and no problem with them. However, if residents have any constructive suggestions, we will be glad to hear them."

RECLAIMED LAND

Later, Mayor Bishop said garbage would be flattened and covered by a bulldozer immediately after it had been dumped.

Eventually a fine piece of reclaimed land would emerge from the site, wherever the city eventually may decide to build the new facilities, said Mayor Bishop.

RESIDENTIAL AREA

The large increase in stop signs follows the completion of a full-scale paving program which has resulted in most of the residential streets being hard-topped.

"As a result motorists are using them for speedways," Ald. Charles Blair said when he enquiry into the two-car collision.

PORT ALBERNI—Thirty-eight new stop signs were approved at Monday's meeting of Port Alberni, following recommendations from the advisory safety council.

One of the signs will be at the corner of Maitland and Anderson streets where motorist Richard Laepple died last month. The recommendation was made by a coroner's jury following an enquiry into the two-car collision.

PORT ALBERNI—City council will submit another protest to the attorney-general's department about the closing of the area's second liquor store when the two cities were amalgamated.

It will also asked for an extension in the hours of liquor sales.

Mayor Bishop said the request was not an attempt to promote the sale of more liquor but to act as a deterrent to bootlegging.

Nanaimo, with less people, has two liquor stores, council members said. Port Alberni's shift workers cannot legally purchase liquor after 6 p.m. at night except on Fridays, when

Chanting Doves Force Vietnam Debate Delay

Humphrey on Victory Doorstep

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Democratic Party opened an historic battle early today on whether to repudiate President Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam War but then adjourned after hand-clapping doves chanted "Let's go home!"

Finally, when it became clear the delegates shared the fight, Chicago Mayor Richard

Daley was recognized for an adjournment motion which was shouted through.

From UPI, AP

CHICAGO — Hubert Humphrey all but wrapped up the Democratic presidential nomination Tuesday when several southern favorite sons, led by Gov. John Connally of Texas, swung their crucial delegation behind the vice-presidential triumphant banner.

Humphrey also appeared headed for a victory in a Democratic national convention showdown over a Vietnam platform plank tailored generally to President Johnson's war policies, despite vigorous opposition from the party's dovish wing. Debate in this plank went on far into the morning.

The rapid-fire developments, coming on the eve of the presidential balloting, caused consternation among supporters of Humphrey's

chief rivals, Sens. Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern. They began huddling frantically in search of an alternative candidate who might stop the hard-driving vice-president. (See below.)

The Knight newspapers, in a copyrighted interview with McCarthy, quoted him as saying "I think so" when asked if Humphrey had the nomination "wrapped up."

"I think it was probably wrapped up more than 24 hours ago," McCarthy said in the interview. The senator placed his strength at about 700 votes and said "I don't even think Teddy could get enough votes to win."

But no sooner was the story out than Richard N. Goodwin, a top McCarthy aide, called the press together to deny

Draft Talk Louder

Divided Dissidents Seek Kennedy Glue

From UPI, AP, Reuters

CHICAGO — Eugene McCarthy, George McGovern and California's powerful Jesse Unruh were reported Tuesday night to have discussed a possible presidential draft of Edward Kennedy with the Massachusetts senator's brother-in-law.

An aide to Unruh, who asked that he not be identified, told UPI that the California assembly speaker, who is chairman of the largely uncommitted 174-vote California delegation, wanted Democratic anti-Vietnam critics to unite behind a Kennedy candidacy.

"We think the votes here last night showed that the McCarthy and McGovern forces must unite in order to win this party's presidential nomination," the Unruh lieutenant said.

The report of the meeting between the two dove candidates for the presidential nomination came amid hectic maneuvering at the convention.

Time Requested

Convention officials said California had asked for time to offer a name in nomination for president Wednesday night. Mrs. Dorothy Bush, secretary to the national committee, said the request did not bear the name of who was to be entered into the race.

Informed sources within the California delegation said the letter seeking time Wednesday night was submitted to leave open the possibility that Kennedy's name might be submitted.

"The letter was sent up basically as a pro forma thing," said Unruh's news secretary, Richard Klein. "It was not done with any specific candidate in mind but to protect our interests."

Support Likely

A source told UPI that McCarthy conceded to Kennedy's brother-in-law, Stephen Smith, that he was all but certain of defeat, but still planned to have his name placed in nomination.

McCarthy was reported to have said, however, that he still hoped that Hubert Humphrey could be stopped from a first ballot victory and if Kennedy allowed his name to be entered, he might support the youngest of the four Kennedy brothers.

A top aide to McCarthy said Tuesday night the Minnesota senator met during the afternoon with Stephen Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law only to discuss the Democratic platform plank on Vietnam.

Unity Move

In Hyannis Port, Mass., a spokesman for Kennedy said Tuesday night that he would have "no comment" on a news report that Smith met McCarthy Tuesday to line up support for a presidential bid by Kennedy.

Despite the 36-year-old Massachusetts senator's plea Monday that his name not be put in nomination, Representative Robert Tamm of the Rhode Island delegation said he intended to place Kennedy's name.

Pungent Paulsen Life of the Party

CHICAGO (LAT) — Pat Paulsen, television comedian and the "S.T.A.G. Party" candidate for president, knocked the California Democratic delegation in the aisles Tuesday with a mock political speech.

Paulsen

He was invited to address the delegates by their chairman, Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, before a joint appearance by Vice-President Humphrey and Senators Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern.

Paulsen returned the compliment by praising Unruh as "one of the most powerful politicians in the city of Ingleswood" (where Unruh lives), and said he had come to Chicago to entertain the troops.

In another allusion to the presence of troops here, Paulsen said he was thinking of appointing Chicago Mayor Richard Daley as his secretary of defence.

Richard Nixon also came in for some kidding when Paulsen announced that "this is my last press conference—you won't have Paulsen to kick around any more."

So did California Governor Ronald Reagan. Paulsen said Reagan had run as California's favorite son and asked: "Son of what?"

Nixon Leading Poll Against Three Foes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Richard Nixon led Democrats Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, Eugene McCarthy or President Johnson by identical six-point margins in a Louis Harris U.S. election survey conducted last Saturday.

The survey copyrighted by The Washington Post published Tuesday, represented a sharp upturn of more than 10 points in Nixon's standing with voters since the Republican convention and the invasion of Czechoslovakia, Harris said. It also showed a loss of edge for McCarthy in relation to Humphrey, he said.

There have been no recent gains for third-party candidate George Wallace of Alabama, he said, but there has been a firming up of voter cleavages over the racial issue.

The survey showed as of Aug. 24:

In a Nixon-Humphrey-Wallace race: Nixon 40 per cent, Humphrey 34 per cent, Wallace 17 per cent and not sure, 9 per cent.

In a Nixon-McCarthy-Wallace race—Nixon 41 per cent, McCarthy 35 per cent, Wallace 16 per cent and not sure 8 per cent.

In a Nixon-Johnson-Wallace race—Nixon 42 per cent, Johnson 36 per cent, Wallace 16 per cent and not sure 6 per cent.

In a July 26-29 survey, Humphrey led Nixon 41 per cent to 36, and McCarthy led Nixon 43 per cent to 35. The Nixon-Johnson question was not asked at that time.

Pilots Ratify Contract To End Strike Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada pilots have ratified a labor agreement and will not strike against the airline, it was announced Tuesday.

Cleve Kidd, executive vice-president of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association, announced that a "substantial majority" of Air Canada's pilots had voted to accept an agreement worked out last week.

The proposed agreement averted a threatened walkout by the airline's 1,122 pilots. If it had not been ratified in the secret ballot vote completed Tuesday, a strike would have started at 2 a.m. today.

The 27-month contract provides for a 10-per-cent increase immediately and a further seven per cent after 15 months. The pilots had originally asked for a 21-per-cent over-all increase.

Air Canada expressed pleasure at news of the ratification and said normal service will continue.

A spokesman said the total contract package will cost the airline $6,700,000 over the 27 months. Air Canada's present pilot payroll is about $15,000,000 a year.

Freak Crash Kills Father, Daughter

REVELSTOKE (CP) — An Edmonton man and his daughter were killed Tuesday when their camper, a converted school bus, was hit by a similar vehicle that swung across the highway while being towed.

Children—Wayne, 11, Debbie, 10, Ronald, 8, and Tommy, 3—were taken to hospital in Revelstoke. All were in good condition Tuesday night.

Police said the Moynes vehicle was travelling east on the Trans-Canada Highway a mile east of here when the other bus-camper being towed by a wrecker in the opposite direction, went out of control.

PRAGUE—His voice heavy with emotion, First Secretary Alexander Dubcek of the Czechoslovak Communist party appealed to the nation Tuesday night for support as their leaders try to rule in the presence of thousands of Soviet occupation troops.

But first indications were that the support was not forthcoming.

Demonstrators ripped down pictures of Dubcek and President Ludvik Svoboda and marched through downtown Prague shouting: "We do not want to live on our knees."

Soviet armored cars drove into the side streets when they sighted the marchers. Dubcek said the compromise agreement he and other Czechoslovak leaders negotiated in Moscow calls for gradual withdrawal of the troops from cities and towns to special areas if Czechoslovak authorities are able to maintain order.

He also disclosed that some measures swept out in the liberalization program begun by Czechoslovak reform leaders last January will be re-introduced. They include press censorship, beginning today.

It was Dubcek's first speech to the public since the invasion a week ago. President Ludvik Svoboda followed with an address pledging the government and party will continue the liberalization program.

But many Czechoslovaks expressed disappointment or bitterness when they learned that the occupation troops will not leave immediately. "We have been sold out," some cried, while others wept openly as news of the agreement spread.

Immediately following Svoboda's speech, several free Czechoslovak radio stations broadcast protests demanding that the Soviet-Czechoslovak agreement be rejected because it was reached under pressure and threats.

The clandestine stations emphasized that the agreement would be valid only after ratification by the parliament, Czechoslovak party central committee, party congress and the Slovak party congress now meeting in Bratislava.

As the angry Prague marchers thronged the entrance to the parliament building, a deputy told them from a first-floor window: "Parliament will not endorse any agreement that is against our freedom to speak and to write, or against our sovereignty."

There was a great roar of approval when he added: "Parliament does not agree with the Moscow communiqué."

"We will do our best to make this republic democratic, sovereign and free," National Assembly leader Josef Smrkovsky, weeping as he reported the agreement to stunned deputies, said. "It was a necessary compromise."

The deputies broke into cries of "Tell the truth" and "Long live Czechoslovakia."

Reuters news agency reported observers here believe that, should the agreement be ratified, Dubcek would have no effective independent powers to humanize and liberalize the Communist system in Czechoslovakia.

Russians Roll To Line

MUNICH, West Germany (Reuters) — Soviet troops took up positions at several points along the 233-mile Czechoslovak border with West Germany Tuesday for the first time since the end of the Second World War.

"It looks as if the Russians are taking over now," a Bavarian border police chief, Gustav Haering, said here.

Earlier, Czechoslovak officials in Prague said Czechoslovakia had to agree to Soviet troops being stationed along the border as part of the agreement reached in Moscow.

Border traffic across the three Bavarian-Czechoslovak checkpoints had come almost to a standstill. (See also Page 3)

Canada Can Tap 'Billions'

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP) — Dr. Arleigh Laycock of the University of Alberta's geography department said Tuesday that if 10 per cent of Canada's surplus water was exported to the United States, it would mean $8,000,000,000 a year to Canada.

The $8,000,000,000 received from surplus water would be 10 times the average wheat sales in Canada in the last decade, he said. "The prospects are exciting."

Laycock said that by the year 2000, Canada will still be using only 2 per cent of its water supply, and export sales might well be warranted for the surplus. But many studies are needed and there is insufficient information on which to base them at present, he said.

Troops Eye Marchers

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—More than 90,000 demonstrators marched on the presidential palace Tuesday under the eye of Mexican army troops backed by armored cars.

There was no violence in the demonstration.
